Preface

No apology is needed for a work of this kind. It is only intended for those who are directly interested in its contents.

I wish to acknowledge the cooperation which I have received from the members of the family—especially the out-of-state members who not only sent their family record but the addresses of others in their family; also to my husband, Fred Miller Gingles, who has helped search for Cunningham history in Trigg County court house, Cadiz, Ky., and Albemarle County court house in Charlottesville, Va.

Be assured that this book will grow in value as a repository of treasured information of the past. May it inspire the young and unborn members of the family to keep the records on and on.

Almost three years was spent in compiling the data used in writing this book. During the latter part of 1954, I made many trips to Trigg County to talk with older members of our family, and from them I learned that a partial list of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's descendants could be found.

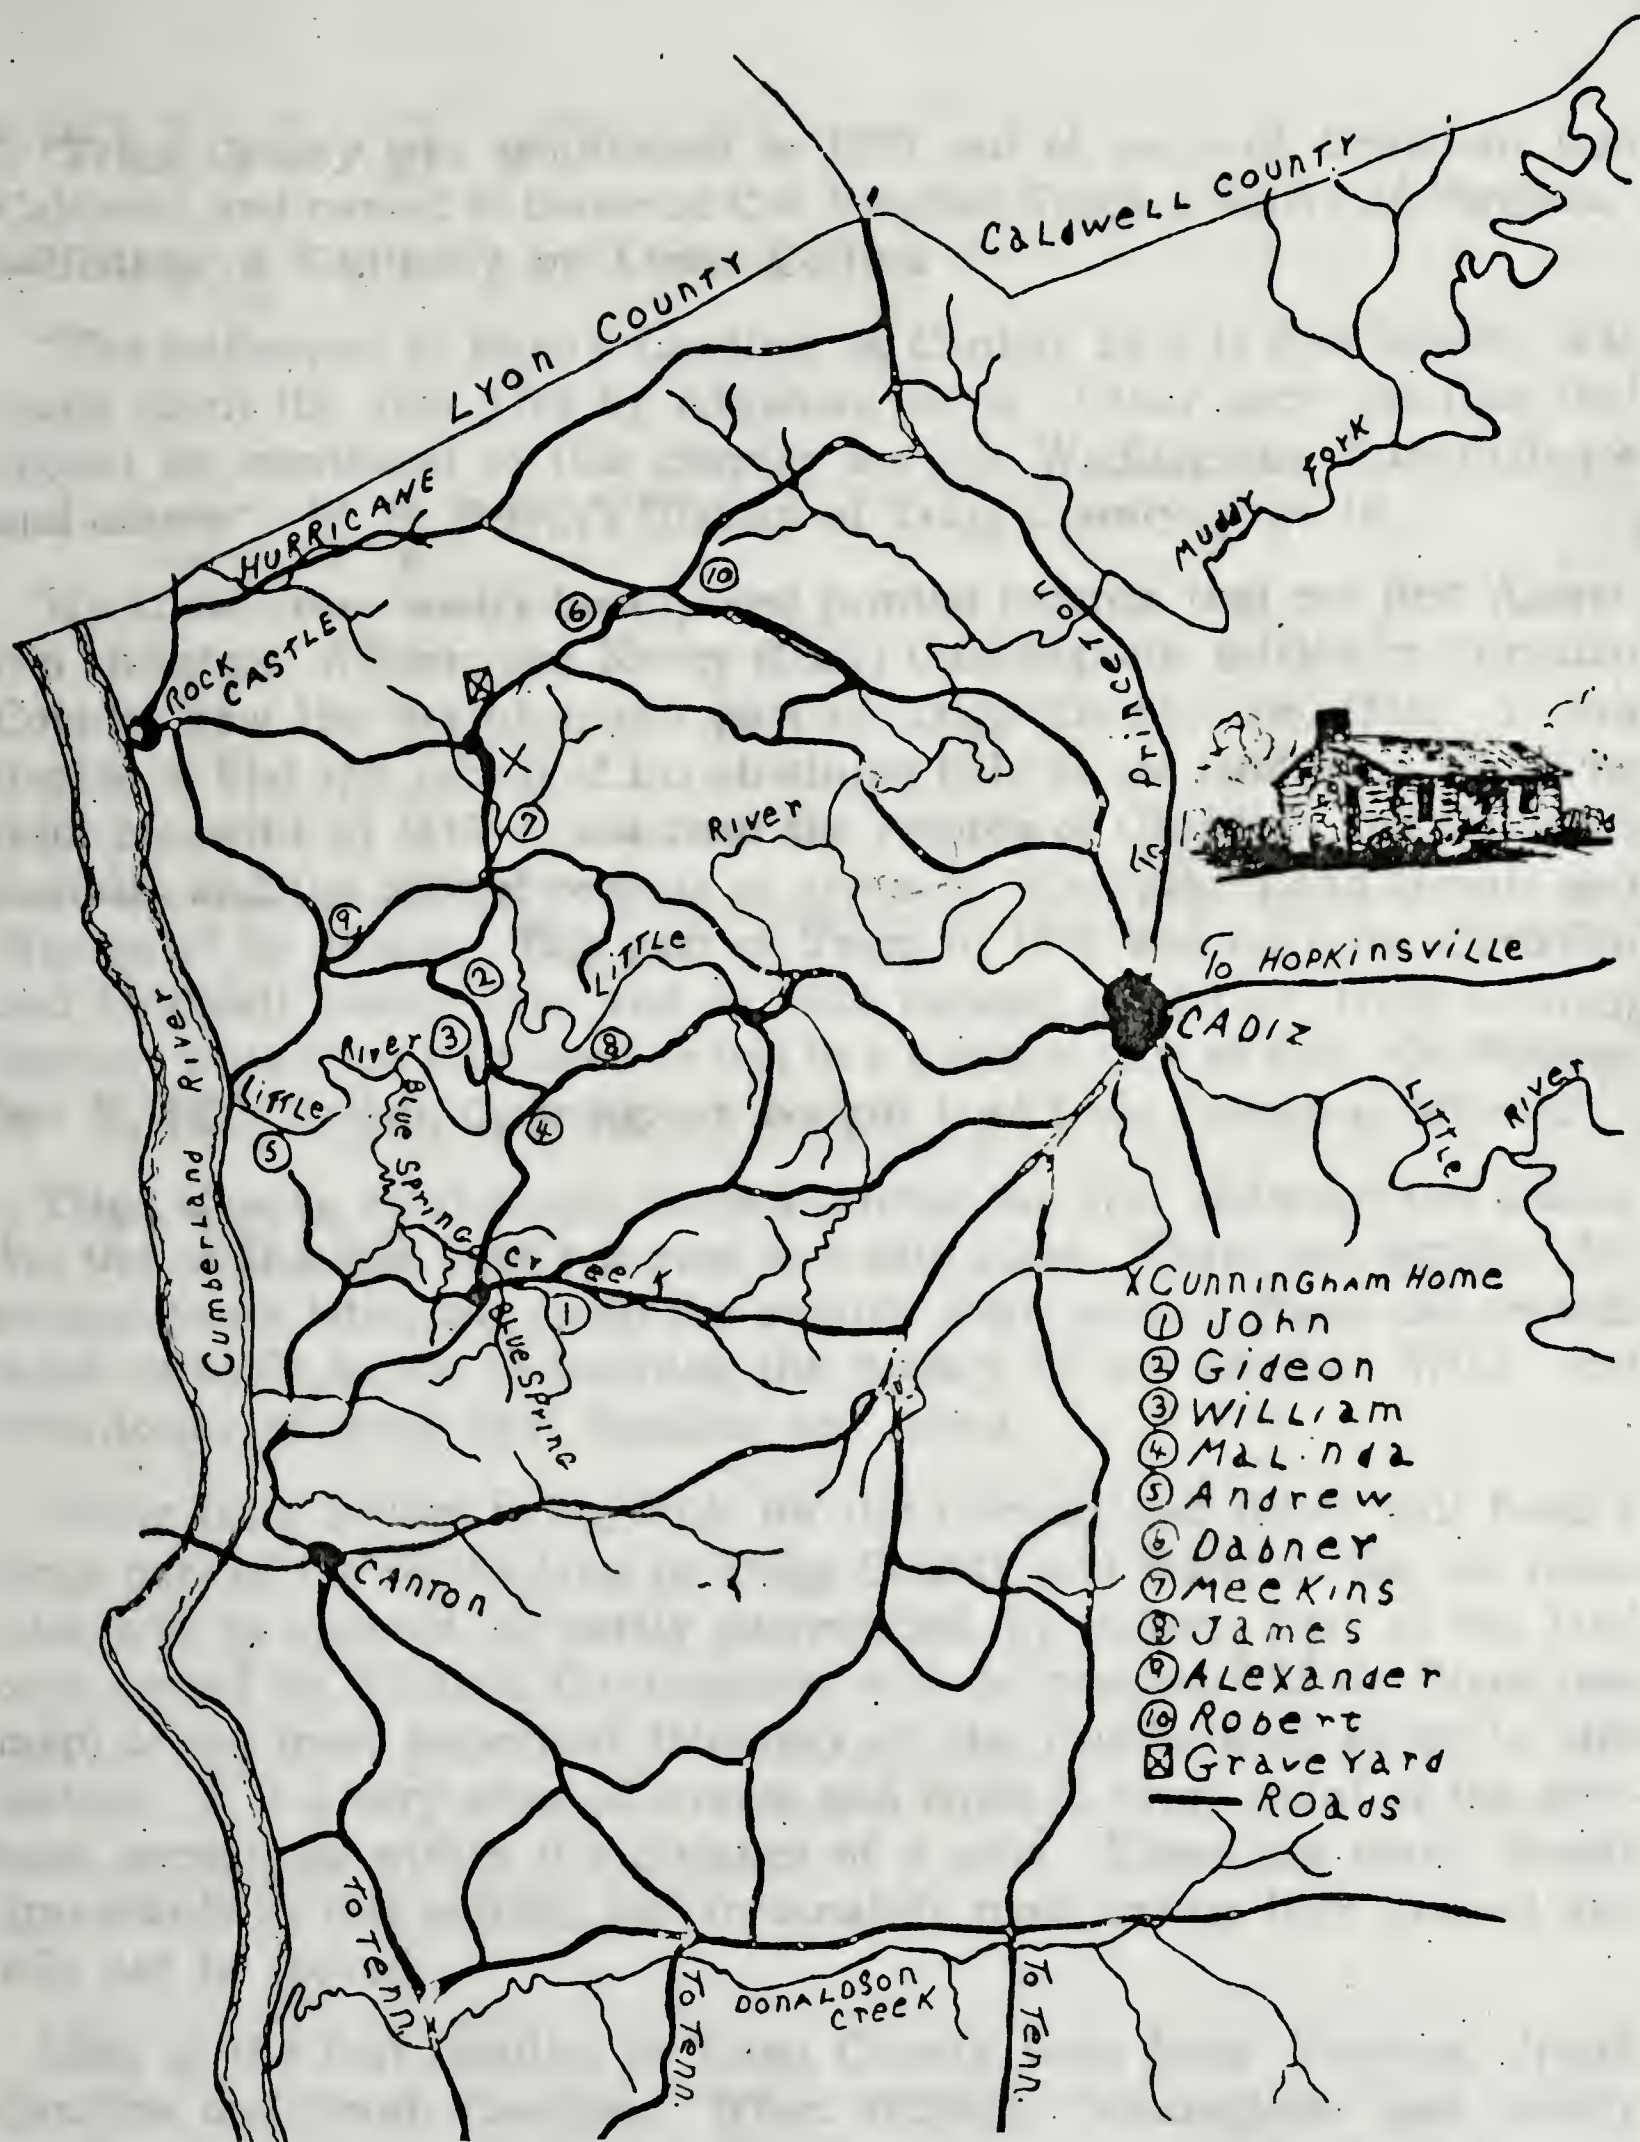

In my self appointed research there passed through my mind the historic panorama of almost 200 years, and with it the cavalcade of ancestors.

This map, which was traced from an aerial view of Trigg County, printed 1936 or 1937, shows where William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham settled in Trigg County, Kentucky in 1818 and where their children built their homes. The log house, shown on this map, is the type of these first homes.

Trigg County, Kentucky

"Trigg County was established in 1820, out of parts of Christian and Caldwell, and named in honor of Col. Stephen Trigg, a native of Virginia,"—History of Kentucky by Lewis Collins.

"The settlement at Boyd's Landing, or Canton, as it is now known, was made about the year 1799 by Abraham Boyd. Other early families that should be mentioned in this chapter are the Wadlingtons, Cunninghams and others."—W. H. Perrin's History of Trigg County, page 12.

We know, from family history and printed records, that our first American ancestors, William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham, settled in Christian County, now the northwestern part of Trigg County, in 1818. I was unable to find any record of his obtaining title to the land upon which he built his home in 1818. I searched the records of Christian and Caldwell counties and the federal records as given in "Kentucky Land Grants and Warrants" by Jillson. This part of Trigg in 1818 was near the Christian and Caldwell county line, and in 1820 became a part of Trigg County. Records were often misplaced or lost in a transfer such as this. On November 18, 1822 William Cunningham bought land from Cornelius Mitchell.

Trigg County court house burned during the War Between the States, but the records had been removed to a safe place. There was another fire several years later, but again the records were saved. These old records were valuable to me in learning the history of our family. Wills and inventories of these first families are listed.

Water from a dam being built on the Cumberland River will flood a large part of the fertile land in Trigg County and many of the old home sites will be covered, or partly surrounded, by water. Part of the land once owned by William Cunningham will be covered. Little River (see map) is the most important tributary of the Cumberland River in this section. It is a very crooked stream and flows to every point of the compass, sometimes within the distance of a mile. There are many family graveyards in this section, but fortunately most are on high ground and will not be moved.

Most of the first families in Trigg County were from Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. When William Cunningham and family came to Trigg County in 1818 they found new friends in the following families—Bakers, Barnes, Greshams, Mitchells, Noels, P'Pools, Sivils, Wadlingtons and Wimberlys. South of these families was the family of Abraham Boyd. The Bridges and Thomas families had settled on Donaldson Creek. Many descendants of these families have married into the Cunningham family.

Printed records show that William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham did own and sell land in Albemarle County, Virginia, and they moved to Trigg County, Kentucky.

History of Trigg County, by W. H. Perrin, printed 1884—page 152:

One of the most respected and certainly one of the most fruitful families that ever claimed a residence in the county was that of William Cunningham, a native of Scotland, who, settled where Trigg Furnace now stands as early as the year 1817. The mere mention of the fact that within the present century and within the recollection of men still living a pair of old people should have settled in this county whose posterity at this day would number perhaps over 800 living souls, and all of the highest respectability, has a tendency to recall, and without aid of revelation, render both possible and probable the promise that God made to Abraham.

It is like some indubitable fact clothed in the habiliments of romance, and almost startles at once our reason and our credulity. Still it is but a simple truth without exaggeration or adornment. Mr. Cunningham during his lifetime accumulated a handsome competency. The names of his children were as follows: John, Gideon, Buck, Malinda, Andrew, Dabney, James, Mickens, Alexander, and Robert, all of whom were heads of large families.

History of Kentucky, by Kerr, printed 1922, pages 213-214:

William Cunningham, the great-grandfather of William R. Hammond on the maternal side, was born in Ireland and when a youth became a bound boy and as such was sent to Virginia. There he succeeded in working out his obligation, and subsequently became a pioneer in the vicinity of Canton, Ky., where he engaged in farming and attained some success.

This is quite different from family history, information printed in several histories of Kentucky and William Henry Perrin's History of Trigg County.

William Cunningham was born in Scotland. He settled in the north-western part of Trigg County, instead of the section near Canton. William was not a "bound boy," as it was known in 1700, he was an apprentice under his father, a tailor, in Scotland. He, William, followed this trade in Albemarle County, Virginia, after he served two years, 1792-94, in the United States Army.

THE HISTORICAL RECORD ASSOCIATION OF HOPKINSVILLE

First of the Cunninghams in Kentucky was William Cunningham who was born in Scotland 1776. William's life had the color of a novel, and established a precedent for spirit and courage in the Cunningham family. He stowed away on a sailing vessel for a six months voyage which ended at Chesapeake Bay, Norfolk, Va., where he left the ship and the distasteful sailing life to live with a sister in Albemarle County, Virginia.

During the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania, William served as a soldier in the United States Army, but returned to his tailoring occupation. In 1795 he married the daughter of a wealthy planter in Albemarle County, Virginia. William migrated to Western Kentucky in 1818. He erected a mill on the present site of Trigg Furnace and began to cultivate corn and tobacco. William was a pioneer horticulturist of the locality and became owner of a large orchard of fruit trees brought from Virginia which bore fruit for almost 100 years. His well managed, highly productive plantation is now known as the John Crute farm.

Kentucky's first Cunningham also found time for public affairs, serving variously as an officer at the first Trigg County election, as a member of the third session of the circuit court and the road commission, in which connection he opened up the highways in the western part of Trigg County.

HISTORY OF KENTUCKY

Edited by

James Breckinridge Speed—1928

Pages 147-148

Dr. Paul Raymond Cunningham, a prominent member of the dental fraternity of Muhlenburg County—His great-grandfather, William Cunningham, was born in Scotland, a coast town, in 1765, and was the youngest of three children. His brother died in early life and his sister came to the United States soon after her marriage, settling on the James River in Albemarle County, Virginia in 1780.

William Cunningham received a common school education and learned the tailor's trade under the direction of his father. According to the laws of his country he was obliged to spend at least two years in the regular army and in order to avoid military service he left home. With the assistance of his maternal uncle, a sailor, he stowed away on a sailing vessel bound for America and remained hidden until the ship was in mid-ocean.

After a six months voyage the boat reached Chesapeake Bay and was anchored in the harbor at Norfolk, Va. Obtaining permission to go ashore Mr. Cunningham traversed the city and managed to elude his uncle, for a seafaring life was thoroughly distasteful to him. Proceeding to Albemarle County, Virginia, he joined his sister, with whom he made his home for a number of years, and from 1792 to 1794 during the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania was a soldier in the United States Army. After the expiration of his term of service, he returned to his sister's home and resumed his former occupation.

In 1795 William Cunningham was married in Albemarle County to Miss Nancy Carr, daughter of a wealthy planter, and for a time they lived on a small farm in the county. In the spring of 1818 Mr. Cunningham migrated to Western Kentucky and with the assistance of one of his sons and a Negro slave built a house and a stable on his property in Trigg County, also raising a crop of corn. In the fall of 1818 he again journeyed to Virginia, disposed of his land in that state, and brought his family to the new home in Kentucky. Erected a mill on the present site of Trigg Furnace, cleared his farm and prepared the land for cultivation of corn and tobacco.

He was one of the pioneer horticulturists of that locality, bringing his trees from Virginia, and became the owner of a large orchard which bore fruit for nearly a hundred years. Through hard work and good management he developed a highly productive plantation. Mr. Cunningham found time for public affairs and was an officer at the first election ever held in Trigg County, formerly a part of Christian County. He figured conspicuously in events which shaped its early history, becoming a member of the 3rd session of the Circuit Court 1820, and was appointed by the judge as road commissioner, in which connection he opened up the public highways in the western part of the county.

Although not a medical practitioner, he was successful in his efforts to combat disease and his skill was much in demand. He was long a leader of progress in his district and served the community to the best of his ability until his death in 1823 at the age of 58 years. His wife was born in 1770 and passed away in 1833. She had reached the 63rd milestone on life's journey and was laid to rest in Trigg Furnace Cemetery beside her husband. In the family were 11 children.

This gives William Cunningham's birth 1765—his tomb rock has his birth 1776. I have tried to find his age recorded on some record.

National Archives and Records Service, Washington, D. C.:

The records show that one William Cunningham served in the Post Revolutionary period (1784-1811) as private and sergeant in Capt. Samuel McGraughey's company of the Knox County Regiment of Militia, called into service for the protection of the frontiers of Washington District, in the territory south of the river Ohio, and in a company of mounted infantry commanded by Cap. Thomas Gillespie, same regiment. His service commenced 11 September 1792 and ended 16 August 1794. His place of residence at time of entrance into service is not shown.

"Biography of William Cunningham," by Rev. John Cunningham (1936) (Rev. John Cunningham was a son of Andrew Cunningham, 2nd child 3rd family):

William Cunningham was born in a coast town of Bonnie, Scotland in 1776. He was the youngest of three children two boys and one girl.

The oldest son died in early childhood, leaving William and his sister at home. His sister married in Scotland and soon afterward they moved to the United States of America. They settled on the James River in Albemarle Co., in Old Virginia, in 1785.

William received a very good common school education in his mother tongue. His father was a tailor and later William was apprenticed to his father's trade. After the completion of his common school education he was required to drill in the regular army for at least two years. He was very much opposed to spending so much of his time in this way, so he began studying and planning a way to escape from this irksome and fruitless task.

About this time his uncle, his mother's brother, came to the home of William. He told his troubles to his uncle and asked his advice as to some way of being released from the requirements of the government. His uncle told him that he was a sailor and was soon to sail from Scotland to the United States and that he could sail with him there. This was a very serious proposition to him, but he started thinking and planning how he could escape from home and his government before he was of age. In a short while his uncle informed him that his ship would soon be sailing for the United States. Then came serious times with William as he thought of home, country and friends that he must leave and would never see again, since he had made up his mind to try his fortunes in a distant land where he would be among strangers.

The night before the ship was to sail, he wrapped up his little bundle of clothes and hid them until after all were asleep. He then slipped out of his window and escaped from home unnoticed. When he reached the ship he hid himself among the rubbish of the ship in the hull of the boat. He remained here until they had gotten far out on the ocean; then they wouldn't go back to shore and put him off.

After a long and tiresome journey of nearly six months, they reached the port of Norfolk Va. Now William tired and worn with his long and tedious journey, wanted to go into the city.

On the trip his uncle had informed him that he wanted to make a sailor of him. William was as much opposed to this as he was to being a soldier.

One day he asked his uncle to permit him to leave the ship and go in the city for a little exercise. His uncle readily granted the request but warned him not to get lost.

When he reached the city he did not inquire about streets but kept straight ahead until he was sure he could not be found by his uncle. He then began to inquire about the way to Albemarle Co., where his sister lived. Since there were no steamboats or railroads the traveling had to be done on foot. After many days and nights of weary traveling he finally reached his destination. He made his home with his sister for a number of years.

He served in the United States Army from 1792 to 1794, during the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania. He then returned home and took up his old trade—tailoring.

In 1795 he married Nancy Carr, in Albemarle County, Virginia. In a few years there were quite a number of children to bless their home. There were nine boys and two girls.

William, having only a small farm, located between two rich farmers. He could not buy any land to enlarge his farm so it was necessary for him to sell and find a place large enough for his family and slaves. They finally decided to go to West Kentucky and immediately began to move.

In order that they might have somewhere to stay when they reached Kentucky they decided to let John, the oldest son, take the younger boys and slaves and raise a crop at home and that William take Gideon and a Negro man and go to Kentucky and make a crop of corn and build a home and a barn for horses and cows.

They came in the early spring of 1818 from Virginia through the Cumberland Gap and through the State of Kentucky to Trigg County, on horseback.

They made a small corn crop and built their house and barn that summer and returned to Virginia in the early Fall.

Some of his neighbors came in to learn something of his western trip and plans for the future. When he had told them of his experiences and his purpose of going to Trigg County, they would also sell their farms and come with them to West Kentucky.

In early fall of 1818 they managed to get everything in readiness which they desired to bring with them to their new home.

They were delayed some time at the Cumberland Mountains as Nancy Cunningham, the youngest child was born. When their family was able, they resumed their travel and reached their destination late in the autumn of 1818. They settled on the very spot of ground where the old store house stands at Trigg Furnace.

They put up a mill and did all the grinding of corn and wheat they had at that time.

He became very busy clearing away the timber and fencing up the land for the cultivation of corn and tobacco. He had selected his young apple, peach and cherry trees to bring with him from Virginia to Kentucky, and soon he had a fine young orchard which bore fruit for nearly one hundred years.

The early settlers about Trigg Furnace would visit him to get cider in those days. In this, Trigg County was part of Christian County.

William was an officer at the first election ever held in Trigg. He was a member of the Circuit Court of Trigg County in 1820. He was appointed by the judge as road commissioner to open up the public roads on the west side of Trigg County. He figured very much in the early history of the county.

He was quite a good physician in his neighborhood as a practical doctor. He looked after the ordinary illnesses of the community with good success. He served his people to the very best of his ability from 1818 until his death in 1823.

He left a wife and eleven children to mourn his loss. He was buried at Trigg Furnace graveyard near the old school house.

The children all married and settled in Trigg County except Gideon who went to Tennessee and married, reared a large family and then returned to Trigg County where he spent the remainder of his life.

The family has been religiously inclined and the majority of them are of the Baptist persuasion.

Politically most of them are Democrats. Most of the Cunningham family have contented themselves to farming and very few have aspired to any vocation.

Cunningham

The Cunningham Coat-of-Arms is a pictorial description of an event in the life of the first man to bear the name of Cunningham. It consists of a silver shield on which is displayed a black shake fork—supported by two brown rabbits or hares (cunnings). Surmounting the shield is a silver helmet lined with red. The crest is a unicorn's head. Below the shield is a blue ribbon with the motto, "Over Fork Over."

I have studied Heraldry (England, Scotland and Ireland) for the past year to learn the meaning of the shield, helmet, mantling, standards and motto of the Cunningham Arms. There are several books on Heraldry in most good libraries. My source of information is from "Heraldry in England," "Scotland and Ireland," by Burkes, "Heraldry" by Crawford, "Heraldry" by A. C. Fox Davis—all printed in England and Scotland.

Heraldry, as we know it, was first seen in the middle of the 12th Century and by 1189 had become a recognized science, with a system, a classification, and a technical language of its own. Therefore the aim of heraldry was plain—that of conspicuous distinctiveness. When on the 3rd Crusade, the armies of France, England and Germany were combined, the knights were completely hidden in armor and helmet and needed means of identification. Peaceful uses for heraldry developed. Arms were carved, painted or enameled on tombs, windows and castles.

The arms of the family were embroidered on the mantels of the women. There were rules how the men were to wear the crest, and motto on shoes, trouser buckles, and head dress. When a ship left port the shields of all arms-bearing men aboard her were painted on her sides. Seals bearing the owner's arms were stamped on documents. Every member of an arms bearing household was required to have a knowledge of heraldry and be able to recognize the arms of prominent men of their time, and the arms of their lord's friends, and of more importance, of his enemies.

A coat of arms (in Europe) is a legal possession, hereditary like any other piece of real property in accordance with certain laws of inheritance. Every coat of arms is attached to the name, and not the title of the person who bore it. The shield is the most important part, for on it are shown the devices of the name to which it belongs and it is with the shield that the laws of heraldry are concerned. It is impossible to have a coat of arms without a shield. The Cunningham Arms has a silver shield with a black shake fork (a farm implement). The crest was borne upon the helmet. The helmet was always lined with red velvet as shown in the Cunningham arms. The mantling was a piece of cloth or leather attached to the helmet, and used as a protection from the heat of the sun, and from the rain, which would have rusted the movable parts of the helmet. The mantling has no significance as to rank. The motto is generally placed below the shield. In Scotland, the motto is a part of the grant of the arms, and must be used without change, and is hereditary.

The motto of a family was associated with some gallant deed which shed lustre on the clan (family). The first Cunningham put straw over the Prince of Scotland and the shake fork with the words "Over Fork Over" signified this kind act. It would be foolish and misleading to claim that the possession of a coat of arms at the present date has anything approaching the dignity which was attached to it in the days of long ago; but one must trace this through the centuries which have passed in order to form a true estimate of it, and also properly to appreciate a coat of arms at the present time. Heraldry is a link with the past, and valuable if it fosters a respect and acquaintance with those who have gone before.

American descendants of British and Continental European families have the unquestionable right to display the arms of their ancestors. Histories tell us that the Cunningham family possessed large estates comprehending the districts of Cunningham in Ayrshire, Lauderdale, and lands in the Lothians.

The Cunningham Name

In early times only one name was needed and all that is found. In the Bible people were identified by their parents "Joshua, the son of Nun," "James, the son of Zebedee," etc. As the population grew it became necessary to have a second name or surname and they were taken from places, trades, animals, colors, and "earthy" things like hill, woods, and creek.

Few people in America know how their name came about. The family name of Cunningham is a place name and is recorded in the early history of Scotland.

King Duncan was the first ruler of the historical kingdom of Scotland. Duncan was murdered by Macbeth (one of his generals) who seized the throne. Holinshed, an early historian, says that Duncan's two sons, Malcolm and Donaldbain, had to flee to escape from Macbeth's soldiers. It was at this time that the early member of the Cunningham family was recorded in history. One Friskin, son of Friskin, concealed Prince Malcolm by forking straw over him. The Prince made his escape to England. Here he gathered an army, returned to Scotland and defeated Macbeth. Malcolm resumed his rightful place as king of Scotland.

King Malcolm rewarded Friskin, his preserver, with the thanedom of Cunynghame. The term thanedom denoted "by act of the King."

Friskin and his descendants assumed the name Cunynghame at this ancient time which would make the name one of the very oldest family names. King Malcolm gave this Friskin a tract of land with soldiers to guard his possessions. The helmet at the top of the Cunningham coat-of-arms shows that he received soldiers at the same time. Some family arms do not have helmets. The land that the first Cunningham received from King Malcolm was in the western part of Scotland bordering on the Firth of Clyde—a bay. The Times Atlas of the World, Vol. III, Mid-Century Edition, shows Cunningham, in Ayrshire, Scotland to be a very large district with many towns.

Before the land was given to Friskin (the first Cunningham) it was called Cunygan which is the plural form of Cunneag. Cunneag (in Gaelic) means pail or churn and suggests dairy produce and fertility for which the district was always noted. There are several Gaelic words tied into the meaning of this Gaelic name. Cunieg, translated cunny or coney, means rabbit and with hame is rabbit's habitat. One early writer says "The rabbits or hares as standards on the Cunningham Arms represents the Prince hiding from his enemies." Crawford in his "History of Renfrew and Peerage of Scotland" says that the name Cunningham properly signifies the King's habitation. A group of people from Germany settled in Scotland in the 500's and they spelled the name Konigheim (King's Home).

Warnebaldu de Cunningham flourished in 1107. He became known as Cunningham, Earl of Glencairn. At that time the approximately 2000 acres of Cunningham land was described as including a manor and church. The great and famous Cunningham castle was built about 1300, in Ayrshire, overlooking the river Garnock—a quadrilateral tower with a great court and a number of less elevated sections—one of the largest structures of the time. A great storm in 1839 overthrew the north wall tower, but some of the ruins can still be seen—the chief seat of the Cunningham family for over 300 years.

Scotch books of Heraldry and history and Chronicles by Holinshed are filled with the lineage and military and civic accomplishments of this family. An old published work, of 1750, describes the Cunninghams, in Scotland, as possessing great physical prowess, very clannish and intensely proud—this of course related to prior centuries.

In Scotland and England the name Cunningham was and is pronounced "Cunnyghim" and many of the older people in Trigg County pronounce the name this way.

From the material available in America, I was not able to learn our William Cunningham's parents in Scotland. Many genealogists make trips to Europe to compile data on families and these are published for American families by the same name. One Sarah F. Washington, a genealogist, says that our William Cunningham was a son of James Cunningham, created III Earl of Glencairn. His mother (James' mother) was the daughter of Lord Hailes whose name was Sir David Dalrymple. I wrote to the Scots Ancestry Research Society, Edinburg, Scotland asking about the possibility and cost of tracing the family of our William Cunningham. Below is the reply.

In reply to your inquiry, however, I very much regret to inform you that we cannot undertake research on your behalf as the information given in your letter is not adequate for the purpose of initiating investigations.

As explained in my previous letter, if the latest-known Scottish date is prior to 1855, precise details of birthplace (i.e., town or village) must be supplied in view of the fact that old parochial registers of births, etc., are not indexed and the name of a probable county or district is, therefore, not sufficient—particularly where Ayrshire is concerned as it comprised nearly fifty separate parishes.

I am sorry to have to disappoint you in that matter . . .

Have established the fact that William Cunningham's family did live in Ayrshire County or district.

On December 8th, 1956, I wrote a letter to Pettigrews, Glasgow, Scotland, asking for information about the Cunningham Plaid or Tartan. They sent a piece of material and the following letter:

Mrs. Bertie C. Gingles,

Murray, Ky., U.S.A.
Dear Madam,

We are most interested in your esteemed letter dated 8th December.
Your association with Clan Cunningham is certainly something to be proud of.

We expect that you have collected most of the important facts concerning the history of your Clan, but we thought the attached history would be of interest to you:

"The family of Cunningham takes its name from the district of Cunningham in Ayrshire. The name occurs as early as the 12th Century. About the beginning of the following century the family resigned all claims and lands in Kilpatrick to the Earl of Lennox. Hervey de Cunningham received from Alexander III the lands of Kilmaurs for his bravery at the Battle of Largs in 1263.

"The Kilmaurs remained the principal family, and Sir William Cunningham by his marriage to Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Denniston of that ilk, added many lands to his family possessions including Glencairn, from which Alexander de Cunningham took his title when created Earl of Glencairn by James II in 1483. He was killed at the battle of Sauchieburn.

"William Cunningham, 9th Earl of Glencairn, born about 1610, was appointed Privy Counsellor and Commissioner of the Treasury in 1641, and Lord Justice General in 1646. In 1653 he raised an army in the Highlands in support of Charles II. After the Restoration he was appointed Lord Chancellor of Scotland in 1664. James the 14th, Earl of Glencairn was the friend of our national bard, and when he died in 1791, Burns wrote his well known "Lament for the Earl of Glencairn" beginning with the line "O! why has worth so short a date?" With the death of John, 15th Earl, who died without issue in 1796, the Earldom became dormant.

"Many important branches spread all over Scotland. The Cunninghams of Caprington trace their ancestry to the 14th century.

"Lament for the Earl of Glencairn," by Robert Burns, is a poem of ten verses—eight lines each. The last half of the tenth verse is—

The Mother may forget the child
That smiles sae sweetly on her knee;
But I'll remember thee Glencairn
And a' that thou hast done for me.

Robert Burns' home was south of the old Cunningham castle built about 1300 in the northern part of Ayrshire, Scotland.

Our Cunningham Family

This book was written to keep before the present generation and the generations to come; the traditions, memories, and history of our Cunningham family and to preserve the rich fragments of the beginning of this large family, many of which exist, at present, only in the recollections of a few great-grandchildren. These witnesses from a former age are rapidly passing from our midst, and with them will be buried the knowledge of much that is most interesting in the history of our family. Some who gave me valuable information have passed away in this three-year period.

The rank and file of the family do not know the full history of our ancestor, William Cunningham and his wife Nancy Carr. Without history we would know nothing of the past. What we do today will be history tomorrow. I find it very hard to believe that anyone who is related to this family would not be interested in learning, if they don't know, the history of the family. Sentiment is a feeling for things we love—no family ties are ever broken by it but rather for the lack of it.

There might be some among them
Whom you wouldn't care to know.
But there's another matter which Requires a different view;
If you could see your ancestors,
Would they be proud of you.

From idea to reality this book represents many hours of talking to older members of the family, reading histories of Trigg County, Kentucky, by William Henry Perrin printed 1884, History of Christian County by Meacham, History of Kentucky by Lewis Collins, and many others—through extensive correspondence with families in every state in the Union, hours of searching through records in Cadiz, Ky., Court House—wills, marriage records and land deeds, records on microfilm in Nashville, Tenn., State Library.

In August, 1956, I spent one week reading records in Albemarle County, Virginia, court house and the state college library in Charlottesville, Va., historical records in the Capital Building at Richmond, and William and Mary College Library, Williamsburg, Va. I talked to the older members of the Carr family living in Albemarle County, and I studied the History of Albemarle County, Virginia, by Rev. Edgar Woods written in 1900 in which the Carr family history is written. Our Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's grandfather, Gideon Carr, Sr., his wife and children, are listed therein.

The story of how many of these records were obtained would prove very interesting but seems like fiction and almost miraculous—for a while the branch ended with "Went West," "All trace lost." After searching for clues and leads, members of the family were found. If one method failed, I tried another. Many times I located members by writing postmasters in towns where these families had lived years before. Many of the births are from the 1850 and 1860 United States Census records of Trigg County, and as their parents gave these ages, I feel that they are true. Note they differ somewhat from the record given in the first booklet compiled by Rev. John T. Cunningham. For instance in Dabney Cunningham's family the names should read James, Sarah, Veturia, Jack, Martha, Emmie, King, Alice, and Clint..

Most of my thoughts on the history of this family were outlined while walking over the former homeplace of William Cunningham. I stood on the very spot where he built his house in the spring and summer of 1818, watched water bubble from the spring that has never been dry in the memory of the oldest Cunninghams. As I walked where they walked, I wanted to say; you tell me about the past and I'll tell you about today. I seemed to be a part of the scene before me—these were his hills and "hollers." His wife, Nancy, dressed in homespun, her stature could be large or small but one thing I do know inside there is a spirit of loyalty and courage. There are sounds of the saw and ax mingled with the songs of native birds and children's voices. Are these trees and birds descendants of the trees and birds they once knew, just as I am a descendant of this courageous man and loyal woman?

There is no way of knowing the exact month or day in 1818 when they arrived in this their new home. It was after the harvest so it must have

From this to realize the book's purpose, it is necessary to understand the nature of the work. The book is not a collection of essays, but a series of chapters, each dealing with a different aspect of the subject. The chapters are arranged in a logical order, starting with the general principles and moving on to the specific details. The book is written in a clear and concise style, making it easy to read and understand. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the subject.

In August 1911, I was in London, and I was very much interested in the work of the British Museum. I was particularly interested in the collection of ancient Egyptian objects. I was very much impressed by the quality and quantity of the collection. I was also very much interested in the work of the British Museum in the field of Egyptology. been in late October or early November. It would take the eyes of a poet who sees beyond the sunset to penetrate the past and describe the hardships of the trip, by covered wagon from Virginia to West Kentucky. Getting over mountains and across rivers made the trip hard and rough. With eleven children and a number of slaves the problem of feeding them was a task. Somehow I have always felt that William Cunningham was one who could meet and conquer any hardship. His life shows us what can be accomplished by one who has vision, initiative, and self-reliance. The story of his life has been told from generation to generation. I listened attentively as my grandfather told me these things as we sat by the winter fire or walked through the fields in summer. He often told me of his grandfather's leaving home, the trip across the Atlantic and his determination to find his sister, who had married in Scotland and was then living in Virginia..

Albemarle County, where she lived, was some distance from Norfolk and to make the trip by walking would have required several days. His descendants have been told down through the years that a man from Albemarle County had brought a hogshead of tobacco to Norfolk, and William made the trip to Albemarle County with him. His sister lived near the James River, which is in the southern part of the county. Her neighbors were the Carrs, Earleys, Woods, Hamners, Andersons, and Thurmans. I have tried to learn the name of William's sister and whom she married—have searched the Virginia records but I am not sure enough to record any name as being that of William's brother-in-law.

This sister of William Cunningham married in Scotland and came to America to make her home in 1785. Family history is that she married against her parents' wishes—slipped out of the "castle," and eloped. This was mentioned in a few letters that I received from members of the family—they, too, remembered hearing this from their grandparents.

We get glimpses of William Cunningham's life in Scotland by reading Scottish histories. His father being III Earl of Glencairn and his paternal grandmother being the daughter of Sir David Dalrymple, whose title was Lord Hailes. William knew well the Cunningham Coat of Arms and the Dalrymple Coat of Arms. These were Scottish customs that he had to obey because his families were in nobility.

There is evidence that one of William Cunningham's Dalrymple relatives settled in Trigg County. An inventory of Caleb Dalrymple's estate, June 30, 1832, is recorded in Trigg County Courthouse, Cadiz, Ky.

The native language or tongue of William Cunningham was Gaelic. He wore, at times, the kilt of Scotland—a short full skirt that reached only to his knee cap. A Cunningham plaid, a long or square shawl, was attached to his left shoulder with a pin on which his family shield was embossed. On his bonnet (cap) he wore the motto of the Cunningham family. In 1791 he must have said "All the past I leave behind as I go the unknown way." This unknown way was love and marriage in Virginia and a pioneer in West Kentucky.

On a hill overlooking his home place is a cemetery where lie the remains of William Cunningham, his wife Nancy Carr and a daughter Nancy, who died at the age of 12. On July 25, 1936, the descendants of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham erected a monument at their graves. This monument is 12 feet high on which are carved the names of William (his birth), his wife Nancy, their 11 children's names and birth dates and the husbands and wives names. I remember that my parents gave $5.00 on this monument. The money which was left in the monument fund after the purchase of the monument was used to print a booklet telling the story of William and Nancy and their children. This booklet was compiled by Rev. John T. Cunningham, son of 2C3F. It is impossible to tell how many of his descendants are buried there, as some of the graves have only red field rocks. His own children are buried on their farms except Gideon. I have been to the graves of eight sons and two daughters. They are in lonely secluded places. With little effort and expenditure on the part of their descendants these family burying grounds could be preserved for posterity..

If acorns buried beneath the snow
Can rise in triumph from below
We, too, shall rise to meet our God
And leave our dust beneath the sod.

—Mellie (Scott) Hortin

Most of the nine sons died from dropsy as did most of their sons, and this trouble is still the cause of many deaths in this family.

Why did William Cunningham leave Virginia and come to West Kentucky to make his home? There were a number of Virginians living here when he came, and he must have known them. And, too, it was a custom then for parents to give a tract of land, if possible, to their children, especially their sons. Land was the principal form of wealth in Virginia as well as the other states, and its possession or non-possession largely determined one's social status and manner of life. Albemarle County, Virginia, was pretty well populated by 1795 when William and Nancy married. The large landowners were keeping their land for their children. William could not buy more land to add to his 386 acre farm, and since Christian County (now Trigg) was so much like Albemarle County, Virginia, it is easy to understand why he came. Here were rolling hills with level meadows between, virgin timber for buildings, springs for water, and Little River abounded in fish. He had nine sons and two daughters and he wanted to own enough land to give a tract to each of them. (The youngest child, a girl, died age 12.)

The family has been known as a jolly clan. Life as they lived it was made up of innumerable experiences of every sort—without pattern or meaning. Now the pattern is plain to me and I hope it is plain to you. As we live our lives, we are adding new pieces to this pattern. There was a closeness between these eighty-nine grandchildren—all living near each other; not one word of jealousy have I heard. If one stepped out of line, the others had a way of putting him in his place. Now in speaking of the eighty-nine the living great-grandchildren say, 'He was in the Civil War or he was a minister, physician, or dentist, or he could play the banjo better than all the rest.'

The boys fished and hunted together, and the girls had many quilting parties.. My first impression of a week end house party is from my grandfather's account of large groups of these eighty-nine spending the week end in different homes. They played original and clever jokes on each other and their parents—ringing cowbells in corn fields at night, hiding each other's fish traps and meat from the smokehouse.

As many of these eighty-nine grandchildren had the same given name, nicknames were used for some of the families. There were reasons for these nicknames. The 1st family lived near the river and were called Duck Cunninghams—Bill Duck, etc. The 3rd family was called "Buck" Cunninghams—John Buck, etc. The story is that most of these were rather large people. My father's mother was the 1st child in this family. Her picture shows her to be a large frame woman. I never saw her as she died when my father was 14 years old. The 6th family was known as Dab Cunninghams taken from the father's first name. The 7th family had one son Robert, nicknamed "Tank," and all of his children were given this name.

Near his home was a pond (people from Virginia called them tanks as people in Scotland and England do today), in which trash had been dumped, and this Robert would be compared to the tank when he would not sit still for a hair cut. The 10th family boys liked to be in the river swimming or fishing and they had the nickname "Rat" Cunninghams. A man rode up to one of the Cunningham houses (I have never known for sure which one) and inquired for the father. The son answered "He has gone across the river to wash rats." After getting this answer for the third time, the stranger rode away to inquire of the first person he met, "Why would any man wash rats?" This Wash Rat was Washington Cunningham, son of the 10th child.

Another nickname that gave trouble was Sir Cunningham. When someone asked his children "Who is your father," the answer Sir caused the inquirer to repeat his question—this was the 1st child in the 9th family. The families used names for certain sections of this area. Every Cunningham who ever listened to the tales of the family through the 19th Century has heard of Goose Hollow—where two women (not Cunninghams) had a fuss over a goose; Blue Spring from a very large spring of the bluest water—blue from the great depth; Hurricane, a section near the Lyon and Caldwell county lines, through which Hurricane Creek twists its way to the Cumberland River; and the Colon was a section around the iron furnace located on land once owned by William Cunningham..

In the Cunningham family the suffix senior and junior did not always indicate the relationship of father and son. Many men and boys had the same names and senior merely indicated older. The tomb rock of Andrew Cunningham, 5th child, shows him to be Andrew Sr. He did not have a son, Andrew, but did have two nephews by this name. The youngest of the two was known as Andrew Jr. During the Civil War there were two Meekins Cunninghams in Company G, 4th Kentucky Regiment. They were first cousins. The older one was listed Meekins Sr. and the younger one Meekins Jr. On some of the church rolls both men and women, in some cases, listed junior and senior.

It is easy to know which names came from the Cunningham family in Scotland—Alexander, David, James, Robert, John, Andrew, William, Isabella, Penelope, Martha, Helen. Except for the name John and William, I did not often find these names in the Carr families. From the Carr family are these names—Nancy, Elizabeth, Malinda, Ann, Mary, Sarah, Micajah, Meekins, Thomas, Gideon and Dabney. I found the name "Meekins" Cunningham spelled as the Carr's spelled it and also "Mickens" as the early records in Trigg County.

In these early days the dwellings usually consisted of two log houses—the kitchen and the big house. Both houses had big open wood burning fireplace. They seldom had matches so the fire was kept alive the year around, and it was a common practice to borrow fire from a neighbor. Many families did not have cook stoves. Cooking was done in heavy black iron skillets with lids. Fire coals were placed under and on top to raise the temperature to the required degree. Bread, cake, cookies, and fruit pies were cooked in this hearth oven—and no stove can bake sweet potatoes with the same juicy flavor. Vegetables were cooked in a black iron kettle hanging on a hook suspended over the fire. Nancy Carr Cunningham had two of these hearth ovens..

Families with children had trundle beds, a low bed that could be rolled under the big bed. I remember, as a very small child, the safe feeling I had sleeping on a trundle bed—near my parents when the lights were blown out and darkness blinded me, I knew that if I fell off in my sleep the fall would not hurt me. Rooms were large and double beds with trundle beds beneath could accomodate a family of eight or ten.

These families of a hundred and more years ago worked hard for the things they took from the land. To clear land for their homes they had little besides their hands and willingness. All of their clothes were woven and made at home by the mother and daughters. A few of the slave women learned to spin and weave. Every household had a loom, also flax and cotton spinning wheels. They had a patch of flax and cotton for cotton and lindsey clothes, bed clothes and table linen, sheared sheep for woolen things. Some of the Cunningham women were excellent weavers. Stockings were knitted from the cotton and wool thread. Girls were taught to knit as soon as their hands were large enough to hold knitting needles. In the early part of 1900 many families were wearing home knit stockings and socks. I wore them until I was about six years old.

The early families did not have sewing machines and clothes were made by hand. My grandmother remembered a little song that her mother sang to her as she would sew seams by hand.

"Stitch and sew, stitch and sew
Swing the needle to and fro."

As late as 1900 every family had several sizes of shoe lasts, a metal or wooden form over which shoes were repaired with a patch on the upper or a new sole tacked on. The experiences of walking on a tack left too high will never be forgotten by me or the others who wore home repaired shoes. In the earlier days many fathers made shoes for the family. My great-great-grandfather Oliver Cromwell made shoes for his family—tanned the leather himself. This home tanned leather was used for shoes, harness and hinges on doors and gates.

There were few doctors in Trigg County in those early days and the families had learned that the bark of many trees and the roots, seeds and leaves of some herbs had medicinal properties. Indian salve was made by boiling the bark of trees or herbs until the solution was very potent. Hog lard was added to this and boiled until the liquid evaporated. This left a very dark salve. A good cough syrup was made from the bark of the wild cherry tree (boiled) with honey added. My parents gave us children this syrup and in the modern syrup I can taste this same cherry bark flavor. For dropsy they drank a brew made by boiling broom corn seed. How can we of the present day accustomed to the luxuries and conveniences of a highly civilized state of society realize the hardships encountered by these, our ancestors.

It is interesting to see how the talent of tailoring has come down through this family. Two of the men in this family have tailored their suits. Mr. Connie Armstrong in Alice Cunningham family, 8C6F, does excellent tailoring work. However, he has never worked for the public. My mother as well as a number of other Cunningham women have been able to cut garments without patterns. There are other talents in this family. My father could fashion most any farm implement from wood and iron. I never heard "Harmonius Blacksmith," by Handel, or read "The Village Blacksmith," by Longfellow, that I don't think of my father's and brother Wade's rhythm on anvils as they would weld heavy metal wagon wheel rims—one striking while the other raised the heavy hammer to strike again. I am the proud owner of this anvil.

There was a musical thread woven into the Cunningham life pattern. It is not strange that there was much singing accompanied by the banjo, an instrument small enough to be easily carried, and not so difficult but that one might become a fair player with little help. Then came the reed organ and "fiddle." Kate (Cunningham) Mitchell 7C9F was voted the best "fiddler" in the family. The present generation has its share of musicians.

Family tradition tells us that William Cunningham was well read in medicine and law. Two of his grandsons were physicians and one was a dentist. And several of his great-grandchildren were dentists. One of the great-granddaughters is a physician.

Many of these 89 grandchildren and their children intermarried. This was common in all families from the beginning of our country through the 19th Century. Even in Scottish histories Cunninghams married Cunninghams, and in Virginia many Carrs married Carrs. In my two branches of the Cunningham family the 6th child of the 1st child in the 3rd family was my mother's second cousin, her sister-in-law and aunt by marriage. In the family record you can easily trace these relative marriages. In this record many families are listed from two to five times and in many cases they are listed as many as three times in the same chapter. Some of the present generation have married not knowing that they have the same common ancestors.

William Cunningham (our first American ancestor) died in the fall of 1823 and his wife, Nancy, was the administratrix of his estate.

When Death's dark stream I ferry o'er
(A time that sure shall come)
In Heaven itself I'll ask no more Than just a Highland welcome.

—Robert Burns

At the time of William Cunningham's death only two of his children, John and Malinda, were married, thus leaving eight children at home with their mother.

This monument, at the graves of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham and daughter Nancy, was unveiled on July 25, 1936, during a family reunion.

Nancy (Carr) Cunningham

William Cunningham

For some unknown reason the names of Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's parents were not handed down from generation to generation. No living relative could remember ever hearing any mention of her parents. From the beginning I was hedged about with a "blank wall" except one small ray of hope. The names Gideon, Dabney, and Meekins were well known names in the Carr families of Virginia. My first proof that her father was Gideon Carr was found April, 1956, in the State Library in Nashville, Tenn. This was a microfilm of marriage records in Albemarle County, Virginia, 1781-1850 (or about): William Cunningham, Nancy Carr, Bondman, Gideon Carr, Dec. 24, 1795. On Aug. 7, 1956, I read the original agreement between Gideon Carr and William Cunningham, page 109, copied from the original papers August 7, 1956, by B. C. G..

Know all men by these presents that we William Cunningham and Gideon Carr are held and firmly bound unto Robert Brooks Governor or chief magistrate of the Commonwealth of Virginia. In the just and full sum of one hundred and fifty dollars to be paid unto said Brooks or his successors in office for the use of this Commonwealth to which payment will and truly to be made we bind our selves, our heirs, executors and administrators jointly and severally firm'y by these presents sealed with our seals and dated this 24 day of December 1795.

The condition of the above obligation is such that whereas there is a marriage suddenly intended to be had and solemnized between the above bound William Cunningham and Nancy Carr. Now if there should be no lawful cause or impediment to obstruct the said marriage then the above obligation to be void or else to remain in full force and virtue.

Teste—Francis Anderson

This marriage was performed ----- and is recorded in the County Clerk's office in Albemarle County court house, Charlottesville, Va.

My proof that Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's mother was Ann Hamner is a record of Nicholas Hamner's will in Albemarle County courthouse in Charlottesville, Va. This will states that Nicholas Hamner is giving to John Cunningham, my oldest great-grandson; one Negro slave—to Gideon Cunningham, my second oldest great-grandson, one thousand dollars—these gifts are to repay—helping to care for said Hamner. Gideon must have invested the thousand dollars in land as there is a record, in the same court house, of Gideon Cunningham selling some land in the county. This land sale was made after he married Harriet Tidwell. She signed the deed. This was not handled through the state of Tennessee so it is presumed that Gideon and Harriet made the trip back to Virginia to make this land sale.

The history of many families pass into oblivion because no one is interested enough to record it. Had I not found these old records in Albemarle County court house, I probably never could have learned who Nancy Carr Cunningham's parents were. Evidently an earnest desire to learn more about my great-great-grandparents guided me in my search. In attempting to compile a correct genealogy on the Carr family, much time and effort were spent in research. I studied many histories: 1. Virginia History (twelve counties), by John Hastings; 2. Old Churches, Ministers and Families of Virginia (Colonial Period), by Bishop Meade; 3. House of Carr, by W. L. Watson; 4. Carr Family Records in America and Their Descendants, by E. I. Carr (Edson Carr, B. C. G.); 5. Vestry Book of Blisland and James City Counties Virginia, 1721-1786, by C. G. Chamberlayne; 6. Virginia Historical Papers, William and Mary Magazine; 7. History of Louisa County, Virginia, by Malcolm Harris; 8. Carr Family, a small booklet of Carr history, compiled from the works of several writers; 9. History of Albemarle County, by Rev. Edgar Woods (a Carr relative, B. C. G.), printed 1900, 2nd printing 1936, 3rd printing January, 1957. The first two have on page 390 this statement "William and Nancy Cunningham to Trigg County, Ky., to California." I asked the head librarians at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, state library at Richmond and library at William and Mary College at Williamsburg to notify the C. J. Carrier Company, printers, that William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham did not leave Trigg County, Kentucky, nor did any of their children. I own a copy of the 1957 issue and the words "to California" are not there. In this same history, by Rev. Edgar Woods, there is the story of Tarleton's Raiders. On June 4, 1781, Tarleton, a British general, and his Raiders tore up all records in Albemarle County court house. On page 25 Woods says: "The act here referred to may be found in Hening XII, 497. It is hard to conceive any conduct in any army more outrageous, more opposed to the true spirit of civilization, and withal more useless in a military point of view, than the destruction of public archives. The loss in records was from 1748 when the county was organized. In 1794 the county court recommended, nine men are named, as 'commissioners' to reinstate such records as had been lost or destroyed." A copy of Gideon Carr's will was proved before them, and directed to be placed on record. I read this will:

Albemarle County, Virginia, March 19, 1776. Gideon Carr—Will. Estate to wife Susannah, during her life. At her decease to children, Thomas, Elizabeth, wife of John Fitch, John, Gideon, Mary, wife of Thomas Travillian, Micajah, Nancy, wife of Ben Thurman, and Meekins. This will did not mention the oldest child William, but Rev. Edgar Woods' history does give this oldest child. Page 162:

Gideon Carr died 1795 (this date should be February, 1794, as this is the date of his death as given on the court records in Albemarle County). His children were William, Thomas, Mary, wife of Thomas Travillian, John, Gideon, Nancy, wife of Benjamin Thurman, Micajah, Elizabeth, the wife of John Fitch, and Meekins. It is probable most of the descendants of this family emigrated to the west. A notice of the death of Thomas Carr is extant, in which it is stated that he was the son of Gideon Carr, a pioneer settler on the Little Mountain in Albemarle, that he removed to Wilson County, Tennessee, in 1807, and that he died in 1821 in the seventy-ninth year of his age.

The records of Wilson County prove this to be true.

The fifth child of Gideon and Susannah Carr, Gideon Carr, Jr., was the father of our Nancy Carr Cunningham. He married Ann Hamner, daughter of Nicholas Hamner. He owned a large tract of land in Albemarle County, near Scotsville. His marriage to Ann Hamner could have been in Albemarle County and was torn up by Tarleton's Raiders or it should have been in Middlesex County, Virginia

Wood's "History of Albemarle County," page 214:

"Tradition relates that the emigrant Hamner bore the name of Nicholas, that he came from Wales and settled in Middlesex County and that he had six or seven sons. Three of them fixed their homes in Albemarle County, William, Robert, and John."

I studied the records of Middlesex County from "Virginia History, Twelve Counties," by John Hastings; "Old Churches, Ministers, and Families of Virginia, Virginia Colonial Period," by Bishop Meade and I learned that Nicholas Hamner did live in this county, was active in church as a vestryman. Not being able to be in Middlesex County to search the old court house records myself, and as it was far too expensive to pay someone to do research work, I was unable to learn more on the history of Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's mother.

Gideon Carr, born 1752, and wife Ann (Hamner) Carr lived about nine miles west of Charlottesville, Va., on a large plantation, with 17 Negroes. Their children were (1) Nancy married William Cunningham and moved to Trigg County, Kentucky; (2) Meekins married Mary Hamner, daughter of John Hamner, a cousin, and settled in Dickson County, Tennessee; (3) Walter settled in Shelby County, Tennessee; (4) Dabney married Mary Appleberry, settled in Dickson County, Tennessee, later going to California; (5) John B. married Susan, daughter of John Hamner (a sister to Mary Hamner) and moved to Dickson County, Tennessee; (6) Susan; (7) Anna; (8) Martha.

Nancy, the oldest child, is listed as Elizabeth in one record so her name must have been Nancy Elizabeth. William and Nancy Cunningham named their oldest girl Malinda Elizabeth, and the name Elizabeth was the most popular name in the family for several generations.

In "Car Family Records in America and Their Descendants," by Edson I. Carr, printed 1894, I found the family of Gideon Carr. His wife is not named. His daughter Nancy is listed as Elizabeth.

The Carr family history is a panorama, distant and dim in detail. Searching through records faded with age, many secrets, to me, were unveiled.

Our Carr family in America comes through Sir William Carr, 10th Baron of Ferniehurst, who lived in London and had four sons: (1) Berry born 1592; (2) William born 1597; (3) George born 1599; (4) James born 1601. Berry, the first son, died in London leaving two sons, Robert and Caleb, who came to America in 1635 on the "Elizabeth Ann" to live with their uncle William Carr who came to America in 1621 and settled at Plymouth. The records of the "Ships Sailings" have been printed book form, and I found the names of Robert Carr, age 21, a tailor, and Caleb Carr, age 11, listed as passengers on the ship "Elizabeth Ann," bound for New England, April, 1635.

In another record I found their names and ages as Robert, age 21, a tailor, Caleb, age 19. The second son of Sir William Carr in London—(2) William and his wife Suana Rothchild and one child, not named, are listed as passengers on the "Fortune" in 1621, commanded by Capt. Roger Williams. This William Carr next settled at Hope Bay, Mass. He built a log cabin and was joined by Robert and Caleb Carr, his nephews. Later Robert and Caleb went to Newport, R. I., where Caleb Carr took a leading part in the affairs of the colony. He was Town Commissioner 1654-1662, Treasurer General 1661-1662. One history says:

Caleb Carr was born in England in 1624. He sailed to America on the ship "Elizabeth Ann" from London in 1635 and settled at Newport, Rhode Island. He was drowned in 1695 while crossing the Bay in one of his own boats. Caleb's oldest son Nicholas died 1709 leaving eight children. Four continued to live in Jamestown, Rhode Island. One went to Warwick and others moved to Virginia and North Carolina and descendants scattered over the South, intermarrying with Jeffersons, Dabneys, Minors, Overtons of Virginia, and many other notable families too numerous to mention."

In my search on Carr genealogy I'm satisfied that Gideon Carr, paternal grandfather of our Nancy (Carr) Cunningham was a descendant of this Carr family. There was an old Carr Family Tree in Albemarle County, owned by a Minor family, descendants of the Carrs. This tree was carried out of the state some time after 1924. Mr. Garland Cunningham of Cadiz, Ky., saw this tree in 1924. He saw our Nancy Carr Cunningham's name on this tree. Gideon Carr was related to Dabney Carr who married Martha Jefferson, sister of President Thomas Jefferson. Dabney Carr and Thomas Jefferson were close friends and made a pact, in early life, to be buried together on their favorite hill. Dabney died suddenly while Thomas Jefferson was president. His wife, Martha, had his body buried at Shadwell, the Jefferson's family graveyard. Thomas Jefferson got permission to move Dabney Carr's body to their favorite hill, so Dabney Carr's grave was the first one at Monticello. I visited Dabney's grave August, 1956, and it is as close to Jefferson's tomb as it can be. Their heads are only a few inches apart. I have hundreds of Carr names and plan to continue my research on this family.

Records of Dickson County, Tennessee, show that Nancy Carr Cunningham's brothers Meekins, Dabney, and John B. did live in Dickson County, Tennessee. Meekins made a will in which he names his wife and children. John B. did not make a will. He must have had at least one child. Meekins, his brother, mentioned his nephew George Carr in his will. Family tradition is that Dabney Carr lived in Dickson County, Tennessee, and visited the kin in Trigg County for several years after Nancy (Carr) Cunningham died, later going to California. Edson Carr says in his "American Carr Family" that Gideon Carr migrated to Dickson County, Tennessee, and died there 1847 at the age of 96. The records in Dickson do not show that he lived there. My decision to learn the names of Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's parents, before this book was printed, has led me through many musty records and long hours of searching through books that held little or no history of the Carr family.

On a great many old records, men and women signed documents with an X (his mark). In every case William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham signed their own names. Nowhere did I find Nancy Carr's birthdate recorded.

Death was a doorway that closed on the life of Nancy (Carr) Cunningham. A door will open on the dawn. How I wish the story of her life had been left in writing. Her descendants were not far removed, in time, from the shores of England and Wales. She married a boy, William Cunningham, who had left Scotland only four years before their marriage and probably still spelled his name in the Gaelic language—Uilleam MacCuinneagain.

I am indebted to librarians in Virginia and Nashville, Tenn., state libraries who have helped me. To Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker of Atlanta, Ga., and Mr. W. L. Maupin, former county court clerk of Albemarle County, Virginia (Carr descendants), and to the family of Mr. George Carr of Albemarle County, Virginia.

Nancy (Carr) Cunningham died in the fall of 1830. John, the oldest child, was the administrator of the estate. The land sales cover a period of some time. The homelace was eventually sold to the Hillman family. Later the Hillmans built an iron smelter near the first Cunningham home and a new Hillman home was built on a hill nearby. This section was then called Trigg Furnace. Today, the homesite of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham is marked with a two story brick chimney which was the chimney to the Trigg Furnace commissary. The old brick kiln is nearby. The present owner of this old Cunningham homesite is a company growing timber for railroad ties.

Colored Families

The records show that William Cunningham owned thirteen slaves valued at $3750.00. These colored people were not sold at the sale when William Cunningham died nor when his wife Nancy died seven years later. I presume they were given to their children. The colored families belonging to John, Gideon and Dabney are listed in the inventories of their estates—the other children lived until after 1865 when all colored people were freed. Many of the colored families took the name Cunningham.

The names of the colored people in John Cunningham's inventory were: Tandy, $1100; Gery, $1000; Juber, $1000; Sam, $1000; Herakyer, $600; John, $300; Maria, $800; Sam, $200; Winey, $300; Loucy, $700. (John gave his first son, William, two slaves—Irwin and Josh). The names of the colored people in Gideon Cunningham's inventory were: Matilda (age 33), $450; Henry, $500; Julia, $450; Sarah, $400; Phebe, $300; Perlina, $225; Linin, $150.

The names of the colored people in Dabney Cunningham's inventory were: Lige, $800; Cary, $300; Mary and child Hardy, $600; Albert, $900; Washington, $800; Clary, $350; Henry, $400; Clifton, $399; Charlotte, $300; Crunillus, $150; Walter Scott, $275; Martha Ann, $150; Irvin, $125.

In July, 1955, I visited Maria, wife of George Cunningham. She told me that her husband was a son of Tandy and Winey, named in the inventory of John Cunningham's estate. John Cunningham willed a tract of land to Tandy and Winey. They lived on this farm until their deaths. Their descendants still own this land.

The colored families in Andrew Cunningham's family (5F) were Alf and wife, Fannie, and their first children—and Brooks, a brother of Alf. Andrew Cunningham bought these two brothers, Alf and Brooks, in Murray, Ky. Fannie lived to be very old. I remember her.

Alf and Fannie's children were: Emma Lee married Jack Hopson; Will married Martha Major (they live in Murray); Sallie married Frank Petty; Sudie married Wilburn; Grover married Elvira Martin. Most of these families moved to Calloway County. Will and Martha (Major) Cunningham's children—Della, Henry, Odvie, Willie, H. L., Estell and Udell—live in Calloway County.

In James Cunningham's family the slaves were Juba, Ki, George, and Tildy.

William Cunningham owned several slaves—Tilda, who helped with the housework and children, joined Hurricane Baptist Church and was a good church worker among the colored families in this section. Kyah and Sam were the main slaves.

Most colored families continued to live with their owners as hired hands.

War Between The States

A number of William Cunningham's grandsons and husbands of the granddaughters were in the War Between the States. My information on this war service has come from Perrin's and Collins' histories of Trigg County and from the Adjutant General's Report compiled and edited by Abner Harris, compiler of war records, State of Kentucky, and late captain 4th Virginia Cavalry A.N. Va.

To His Excellency, James B. McCreary

Governor of Kentucky

Frankfort

Sir:

I have the honor to submit the following report from this office, in conformity with a resolution of the General Assembly, approved March 27, 1902, which reads as follows:

It is greatly to be regretted that the historical records of the brave men who followed the Confederate flag and gave their lives to the cause they loved, are so incomplete, owing to the fact that the Commanding Officers of Regiments and companies have neglected to make proper reports, etc. There must be many hundreds of names not found on the returns, so carelessly were the records kept, or were lost by capture. Frequently companies were attached to several regiments under different company letters, and regiments were also numbered variously.

Respectfully,

J. Tandy Ellis

The Adjutant General

Our grandfathers of that struggle evidently considered that their business was to use a sword instead of a pen, and they were out to fight instead of to write, for the rolls and reports are defective, when judged in the light of family records and histories written during the lifetime of these men. Here are two errors in the Adjutant General's report:

James Green Cunningham is listed as G. G. Cunningham. J. F. (Fream) Baker is listed as having died in service. His brother Francis M. died in service. John Fream had a ninjury to one eye. Their record in Collin's "History of Kentucky" corresponds with Perrin's "History of Trigg County" and family records. World War I and World War II records will show future generations that the Cunningham family helped in these conflicts. Many lost their lives. All service records are listed with their names in the different chapters.

When Congress was organized, the first thing it did was to elect a Speaker. The House of Representatives was then organized, and the Senate was organized. The President was then elected, and the Vice President was elected. The first session of the 71st Congress was held in 1929.

History of the House

The House of Representatives is the lower house of the United States Congress. It is composed of 435 members, known as Representatives. Each Representative represents a district in one of the 50 states or the District of Columbia. The House is organized into several committees, which are responsible for studying and reporting on legislation. The House also has a Speaker, who is elected by the members of the House.

The House of Representatives is the only body in the federal government that is directly elected by the people. The members of the House serve two-year terms.

History

The House of Representatives has a long and rich history. It was first established in 1789, and it has since played a central role in the development of the United States. The House has been the site of many important events, including the passage of the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation Proclamation.

Churches

Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church was one of the first churches organized in Trigg County. It was also known as Blue Spring. Mr. Richard (Dick) Guier, one of the oldest members, says the church was organized in 1810. The first building was made of logs. For some time the log building was used for public and subscription schools as well as church services. Later a frame building was erected, a short distance from this first log building, on land donated by my great-grandfather, James Harris. This second building burned some time in 1880 and the first records were lost.

In 1886 James Cunningham and Alexander Baker were appointed to revise (reinstate) the church roll, both the living members and those deceased. Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's name and the date (April, 1823) that she joined by baptism was recorded. Her son James, the 8th child, joined at the same time. Several pages of this old record are missing and no one will ever know if William Cunningham joined here, but it is presumed that he did. (Nancy's people, the Carrs, were Episcopalians. The main church in Scotland was Presbyterian.) The Cunningham home was five or six miles from Mt. Pleasant Church. For 146 years this church has been a great influence upon old and young in this section of the county. Both my parents joined the church here. I spent some time reading the minutes and church roll in this old church record. All of the Cunninghams, as far as can be learned, were Baptists or Baptist in belief. All of them joined Mt. Pleasant or Hurricane Baptist Church, which was organized in 1845. Space won't permit the listing of these church rolls. I did find all of the names of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's children and grandchildren except the grandchildren who died young and Nancy the 11th child who died age 12.

Hurricane Baptist Church was constituted April 12, 1845, with nine members. All records of this church have been preserved. In June, 1956, I read the minutes and roll of this church through 1881. On February 1, 1845, Bro. T. L. Baker, J. F. White, John Cunningham (1st child of William Cunningham), and Bro Gardner listed 18 rules for a Baptist Church in the extreme northern part of Trigg County on Hurricane Creek. On April 12, 1845, they presented these 18 rules to five other people, Thomas Wadlington and wife Elizabeth, F. Wadlington, Meedis Bolin and Rubin Harris. These nine were the charter members. On April 15, three days later, the doors of the church were opened and the following names were added to the roll: Celia Mitchell (Harvey Peal's sister, B.C.G.), Nancy Ann Cunningham (my father's mother), Alexander Cunningham, Meekins Cunningham, and James Cunningham. J. F. White elected moderator, Thomas Wadlington elected clerk.

Notes from these first records: First church treasurer, G. B. Grasty; first sexton, William Grasty; first pastor, J. F. White (who served as pastor for several years). Lord's Supper to be observed four times during the year --March, June, September, and December. First building to cost no more than $600. Land donated by G. B. Grasty.

On this church roll and the roll of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church are listed most of the great-grandchildren of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham and many of their descendants are members of these two churches today. The present Hurricane building is about 30 feet from the first building site.

Many colored people belonged to Hurricane Baptist Church. Hanibal, a man of color, joined on April 15, 1845. As late as 1895 colored people attended church services here. Several of the older members told me that they had seen colored people in church services at Hurricane. In 1864 two colored members were called before the church for running away from their owners.

Rev. Thomas L. Baker who married Malinda Cunningham, 4th child of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham, helped organize several churches in Trigg County—many of the old church records show this to be true. "History of Trigg County," by W. H. Perrin, page 158-159:

Pleasant Hill Baptist Church dates its history from the year 1842. It was organized by Rev. T. L. Baker, Jesse Cox and Joseph Barnes. In 1844 a log house of worship was erected on land donated by David Calhoun . . . Cumberland River Baptist Church in Ferguson Springs Precinct was organized in 1843 by Rev. T. L. Baker and Rev. Mr. Daniel . . . Pleasant Valley Baptist Church in Golden Pond Precinct was established in the year 1864 by Rev. T. L. Baker and George Patterson. George Patterson was a Baptist minister. He performed many marriages in Trigg County.

Schools

Copied from Perrin's "History of Christian, Caldwell & Trigg Counties," (printed 1884).

John Grasty moved from South Carolina and settled not far from the location of Trigg Furnace early in the present century. He taught near the old Cunningham place, perhaps the first school that was ever taught in Trigg County, giving it up to an Englishman by the name of Price who continued to teach it for several years.

Many of the second, third and fourth generations had part of their schooling in subscription schools. The first state supported schools were held only three months in each year and these subscription schools carried on from one to three months longer. From these short-term county and subscription schools, several in the family were able to attend medical and dental schools. Two became Trigg County school superintendents and many were teachers. Every family had a school lunch basket in which the children carried such things as baked sweet potatoes, meat, fried pies and sometimes a jar of milk. Of course, there were other things but these were favorites.

Spelling "bees" were held every Friday afternoon—words from the old "Blue Back" spelling book. There was a schoolhouse at Trigg Furnace from the day John Grasty taught there until a few years ago. Many Cunninghams taught here over a period of years. The bark on three large beech trees near the location of the first schoolhouse is thickly carved with many initials—W.C., M.C., J.C., Mick, E.W.C., R., Z, and others. As I read and copied these letters carved so long ago, I half expected some of these children and grandchildren to say:

We have passed out of the shadows into the light of day,
Why do you call it dying this peaceful going away.

About half of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham's grandchildren had their "schooling" at Blue Spring. The first schoolhouse was near the Blue Spring graveyard—it was a log one-room building used, at first, for both church services and school. My mother, age 87, attended school in this first log building at the age of five years.

First Family

John Cunningham

John Cunningham, first child of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham, was 22 years old when he came to Trigg County, Kentucky, in 1818. The old records in Trigg County court house show that he bought land, paid taxes and sold land. After John's death the Trigg County appraiser listed everything that was to be sold and the value of his slaves. This record and a copy of John's will is in the county clerk's office in Cadiz, Ky. The 1850 census record of Trigg County tells us that his wife, Mary (Polly) Gresham was born in Virginia. John died 1855 and was buried on a hill near his home. Polly, his wife, died 1870 and was buried by his side. On John's tomb-rock are his birth, death, and these lines:

Remember me as you pass by,
As you are now so once was I.
As I am now so you will be,
Prepare for death and follow me.

19500006

(This verse is on many tomb-rocks in England and Scotland.)

The 1850 Trigg County census record lists this family: 'John Cunningham, age 53, born in Virginia, (wife) Mary, age 47, born in Virginia, (children) William, age 28, Jasper, age 19, John, age 13, Mary, age 11, Isabell, age 9, Eddie, age 7, Helen, age 3.' The 2nd child, Elizabeth, was married to Richard Guier.

Service record: Marvin C. Harris, U. S. Army, paratrooper. Basic training Fort Benning, Ga. Was sent to Fort Bragg, N. C., and Camp Forrest, Tenn. Overseas August, 1944, England, France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. Was in the "jump" across the Rhine River. In one battle he was injured (and I'm sure would have received a Purple Heart), but would not list himself as a casualty as he did not want his parents to see his name among the list of casualties or be notified of his injury. Marvin's task was to turn in the casualties in his group. This was a permanent injury.

The Role of the Teacher

The role of the teacher is a complex one, involving a variety of factors that influence the effectiveness of the classroom. This paper explores the various dimensions of the teacher's role, from the traditional view of the teacher as a transmitter of knowledge to the more contemporary view of the teacher as a facilitator of learning.

The Traditional View of the Teacher

In the traditional view, the teacher is seen as the primary source of knowledge and information. The teacher's role is to deliver content to students, who are expected to passively receive and memorize the information. This view of the teacher's role is rooted in the behaviorist perspective of learning, which emphasizes the importance of rote learning and repetition.

Proponents of this view argue that the teacher's role is to provide a structured and controlled environment in which students can learn. They believe that the teacher should be the one to set the pace and direction of the learning process, and that students should be held accountable for their learning outcomes.

However, this view of the teacher's role has been increasingly challenged in recent years. Critics argue that the traditional view is overly simplistic and does not take into account the individual needs and interests of students. They believe that the teacher's role should be more dynamic and responsive to the needs of the learners, and that students should be encouraged to take an active role in their own learning.

The Contemporary View of the Teacher

The contemporary view of the teacher's role is more complex and multifaceted. It recognizes the teacher as a facilitator of learning, rather than a transmitter of knowledge. The teacher's role is to create a supportive and engaging learning environment in which students can explore and discover knowledge for themselves. This view of the teacher's role is rooted in the constructivist perspective of learning, which emphasizes the importance of active learning and the role of the learner in constructing their own understanding of the world.

The Role of the Teacher in the 21st Century

In the 21st century, the role of the teacher has become even more complex and challenging. The rapid pace of technological change and the increasing diversity of the student population have created new demands on the teacher. Teachers are now expected to be not only facilitators of learning, but also to be skilled in using technology to enhance the learning experience. They are also expected to be able to address the individual needs and interests of each student, and to be able to foster a sense of community and collaboration among the learners.

The Future of the Teacher's Role

As we move into the future, the role of the teacher is likely to continue to evolve. The demands on the teacher will likely increase as technology continues to advance and the student population continues to diversify. However, the core of the teacher's role—facilitating learning—will likely remain the same. The teacher will continue to be the one who guides the learner, who provides the support and encouragement needed for the learner to succeed, and who helps the learner to develop the skills and attitudes needed to thrive in a rapidly changing world.

The Importance of the Teacher's Role

The role of the teacher is one of the most important in society. Teachers are the ones who shape the minds of the next generation, and who help to create a better future for all. The quality of the education that students receive is directly related to the quality of the teachers who teach them. Therefore, it is essential that we continue to support and value the role of the teacher, and that we ensure that all students have access to the best possible teachers.

Conclusion

The role of the teacher is a complex and multifaceted one, and it is one that is constantly evolving. As we move into the future, the demands on the teacher will likely increase, but the core of the teacher's role—facilitating learning—will likely remain the same. The teacher will continue to be the one who guides the learner, who provides the support and encouragement needed for the learner to succeed, and who helps the learner to develop the skills and attitudes needed to thrive in a rapidly changing world.

4th Child, 1st Family

John Cunningham, M.D.

John Cunningham had his first "schooling" in a one room school house, Blue Spring, in the Blue Spring section of Trigg County. After he was grown, he attended Bethel College, Hopkinsville, Ky., and later studied medicine and took a degree in a medical college in St. Louis, Mo. He married in Trigg County, Ky., in 1859, and his wife died at child birth, leaving a baby son.

When the Civil War broke out in 1861, Dr. John volunteered with ninety other young men from Trigg County—was appointed first lieutenant and with these men marched to Camp Burnett, Montgomery County, Tennessee. In 1867 he went to Texas and settled near Ravena where he practiced medicine for many years. In spite of his active life as a doctor he served in the 13th, 27th, 28th, 33rd, and 34th sessions of the Texas legislature. He is buried in Texas.

Service record: This record is from "History of Trigg County" by W. H. Perrin, printed in 1884, "History of Kentucky" by Ed Porter Thompson, printed in 1868, and the Adjutant General's Report of "Kentucky Volunteers" edited by Abner Harris.

John Cunningham, Co. G, 4th Kentucky Regt., 1st Kentucky Brigade. Elected 1st Lt. Sept. 13, 1861, Trigg County. Fought at Shiloh, resigned June 6, 1862.

(This resignation was a transfer from the Infantry to the Medical Corps. This information is from older living members of the Cunningham family and from Dr. John's own family.)

The following is from a newspaper clipping after his death on Feb. 26, 1924, in Ravena, Texas:

Dr. John Cunningham died suddenly about five o'clock this morning. When the War Between the States broke out, he volunteered and served throughout the bloody conflict. At the battle of Shiloh, he was in command of a company under Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston. He also served as a surgeon in the Confederate army and was stationed at Lookout Mountain. He was captured by the Federals and kept a prisoner for a time at Camp Chase in Ohio. He moved to Fannin County, Texas, in 1867.

4th Child of John and Polly (Gresham) Cunningham

Groom, John Cunningham, M.D.; born Feb. 26, 1836. Bride, Annie Olivia Patterson; born 1841 in Trigg County, Kentucky, daughter of George and Margaret (Carloss) Patterson (see allied families). Date of marriage, Oct. 17, 1859, in Trigg County, Kentucky. One child, Byron Blair, born in Trigg County, Kentucky. (Annie Olivia (Patterson) Cunningham died at the birth of this child.)

After Annie Olivia's death, Byron Blair lived in the home of Rev. George Patterson. His father, Dr. John Cunningham, went to Texas after the Civil War was over and Byron Blair did not see his father until 1876, when he visited him in Bonham, Texas. He did not like Texas so he returned to Trigg County, Kentucky, to live. He taught one school in Trigg County. Married Mary S. Dyer and she died when their only child was born in 1883. When this child was three weeks old, Byron Blair left him with an aunt, Eliza (Dyer) Mitchell, and went to Texas to live. Married and raised a family in Texas. In August, 1921, Byron Blair Cunningham and his aged father, Dr. John Cunningham came to Trigg County on a visit and this was the first time Byron Blair had seen his son, by his first marriage, since 1883.

Byron Blair Cunningham practiced law in Bonham, Texas, for some time. Then became a successful farmer. He died at the age of 87.

There have been a few cases of this disease in the State of New York, but it is not common. It is a disease of the lungs, and is caused by a virus which is spread by the air.

The disease is characterized by a cough, which is at first dry, but later becomes productive of sputum. There is also a fever, and the patient feels generally ill. The disease is usually fatal, and the patient dies within a few days of the onset of the symptoms.

2nd Family

Gideon Carr Cunningham

Gideon was given the name of his maternal grandfather, Gideon Carr. Gideon Carr Cunningham was twenty years old when he came to Trigg County, Kentucky. Albemarle County, Virginia, was thickly populated at this time, and this twenty year old boy must have missed his young friends. After his father, William Cunningham, passed away (his mother was living) he went to Dickson County, Tennessee, and married Harriett Tidwell of Dickson County. Their oldest child, Andrew, was born in 1828, two years before Nancy (Carr) Cunningham died. The 1850 census record of Dickson County, Tennessee, shows that Gideon, age 57, born in Virginia; his wife, Harriett, age 46, born in Tennessee, were living in the county. Living with them were Mickens, age 17; Nicholas, age 16; and Susan, age 12. Martha Ella had married and was living near them. Andrew and wife had moved to Trigg County. Gideon's son John (Jack) was living with Andrew in Trigg County. 1850 census record shows this to be true.

The children's ages as given in the census records show that they were born in this order: 1. Andrew; 2. John; 3. Ella; 4. Mickens Carr; 5. Nicholas; 6. Susan. Gideon died in 1865. His will is in Trigg County Courthouse. His wife Harriet died 1860.

I have not been able to learn where Gideon Carr Cunningham and wife, Harriett (Tidwell) Cunningham, are buried. No living person knows where their graves are located. Their daughter, Martha Ella, is buried in Dickson County, Tenn. Son, Mickens, is buried at the Andrew Cunningham graveyard. Son, Andrew, is buried in Louisiana. Son, Nicholas, is buried at James Cunningham graveyard. Son, John (Jack) is buried in Texas. Grave of their daughter, Susan Beadie, unknown. There are many unmarked graves in William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham graveyard at Trigg Furnace, and Gideon could be buried there. I have written many letters to his descendants who live out of Trigg County and none of them know where he is buried. He might have been carried back to Dixon County, Tennessee, for burial.

I have seen many unmarked graves in family graveyards of the Cunningham family, as well as many other families.

"In this small plot my body shall rot,
And by the living shall be forgot."

William D. Cunningham married the second time, had children, but nothing is known about this second wife and children. He died in Arkansas.

2nd Marriage of Andrew Cunningham

Bride, Permelia Burnam; born 1835, daughter of Wilson and Elizabeth Burnam. Date of marriage, 1854, in Trigg County. Four children are listed in the 1860 census record of Trigg County: 1. William D., age 8; 2. Lou Ella, age 5; Charles, age 2; 4. Ida Bell, age 1. A granddaughter of Andrew Cunningham, by his third marriage, says she remembers that there was a girl Belle who died age 16 with TB. Also a boy Gano who was shot by a colored man on the plantation in Louisiana; he was about grown. Gano could have been the 3rd child mentioned in the census record. Many times the census record does not give a child's double name. The one recording name would, in many cases, record only the first name called by the parents and the child was called throughout life by the last name. The first child William D. was by Andrew Cunningham's 1st marriage.

3rd Marriage of Andrew Cunningham

Bride, Mrs. Susan A. (Stevens) Guier. Date of marriage, May 21, 1865, in Trigg County. One child: Grace.

Susan A. Stevens first married a Guier who was killed while serving in the Southern Army during the Civil War. She was left with a six weeks old baby. The following is from a letter that I received from her granddaughter of Princeton, Ky. Aug. 2, 1956. It was most interesting to hear her tell of her experiences trying to get home through the Yankee lines. Mr. Guier and Susan had bought land in Louisiana before the war. In 1870 Andrew, his wife Susan and their six months old child Grace, moved to Louisiana where they lived until Andrew died 1881 or 1882. He was buried in Louisiana.

Bride, Grace Cunningham; born Aug. 25, 1869, Trigg County. Groom, Robert L. Pepper. Three children born to this union: 1. C. A.; 2. Wylie, born 1893, died age 20; Grace.

1st Child of Robert L. and Grace (Cunningham) Pepper

Groom, C. A. Pepper, attorney; born 1891. Bride, Florence Elizabeth Patten. Date of marriage, April 10, 1918. Three children born to this union: 1. Jane Elizabeth; 2. Mary Hilda; 3. Juliet.

1st Child of C. A. and Florence Elizabeth (Patten) Pepper

Bride, Jane Elizabeth Pepper; born Aug. 27, 1919. Groom, Paul Palmer. No children.

3rd Child of C. A. and Florence Elizabeth (Patten) Pepper

Bride, Juliet Pepper; born Dec. 9, 1922. Groom, Bob Anders. Two children born to this union: 1. Michael Pepper, born July 9, 1953; 2. Donna Ann, born July, 1955.

3rd Child of Robert L. and Grace (Cunningham) Pepper

Bride, Grace Pepper; born July 23, 1900. Groom, W. C. Hayden, M.D.; born Dec. 5, 1880. No children.

All of the information on Andrew Cunningham is from the 1850 and 1860 census records and marriage records in Trigg County, Kentucky, and in Dickson County, Tennessee, and family records from a living granddaughter, Mrs. W. C. Hayden.

2nd Child, 2nd Family

John (Jack) Cunningham

John Cunningham was born in Dickson County, Tennessee. His older brother, Andrew, married in Tennessee and moved to Trigg County, Kentucky. The 1850 census record of Trigg County shows that John is living with Andrew and Beadie (White) Cunningham. John married a neighbor girl, Bettie Barnes. Bettie's brother, John Barnes, married Victoria Cunningham, a first cousin to Bettie's husband, John Cunningham. These two families with Victoria's brother, John G. Cunningham, went to Texas while their children were small. The descendants of these three families live in Texas, California, and Oklahoma.

Mrs. Norma (Slaughter) Carmel, a descendant of John (Jack) Cunningham, worked on the Cunningham genealogy in 1949-50. She spent two weeks in Trigg County trying to learn how her great-grandfather was related to the family of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham. There were three John Cunninghams who went to Texas. With help from some of the older ones, 1850-60 census records of Trigg County, Kentucky, and Dickson County, Tennessee, I was able to learn where this John (Jack) Cunningham belonged in the family. Part of the records on John (Jack) Cunningham family are from Mrs. Carmel's efforts. However, I have contacted the families in most cases. Mrs. Carmel did not have records on the Summy family. I found them through letters that I wrote to postmasters in towns where the family had lived. In one case the family had moved away and my letters were given to in-laws. Sometimes I found them through families with the same name, but not related.

not see each other so much growing up. Hugh was the standby in the family. Vera Verna was a beautiful woman, died with cancer. Her oldest son Bill was in the Pacific at the time of her death. His father died during W. W. I. Sam is very devoted to the family. Chester is a typical (Cunningham (big feet included). He is postmaster and has been for years, was in the Navy for three years. Lester, the youngest, is by far the best one in the family. He is just down-right good. I have always had such a protective feeling for him. Now for myself, I have always felt that life was entirely too short to let one's self become bitter about anything. We can't jump overboard when the sailing gets rough. It's a heap sight better to laugh."

Third Family

William Cunningham

This family had the nickname of "Buck" Cunningham. William Cunningham was 18 years old when he came to Christian County, now Trigg. He was my father's grandfather. Like all of the other Cunningham men, William would tell his children and grandchildren about the trip from Virginia to Kentucky in covered wagons. There must have been some horses and mules but my father remembered only covered wagons pulled by oxen. William found new friends in Christian County, now Trigg. He fell in love with Janot Mitchell, a neighbor girl, and they were married when William was 27 years old. The 1850 Trigg County census record lists his family: "William Cunningham, age 49, born in Virginia; Jane (wife), age 39, born in Kentucky; children, Andrew G., age 17; David, age 15; William T., age 13; Mickens C., age 10; Elijah A., age 6; Eliza, age 4; John J., age 1." Dabney was born three years later. The oldest child, Nancy, was married. Janot Mitchell is mentioned in the settlement of her father's estate as Janot. She was called Jennie Mitchell by older people. Janot (Mitchell) Cunningham died Feb. 18, 1878, and was buried on a hill in sight of her home. She was the first one buried here. On Sept. 12, 1879, William Cunningham Jr. died and was buried by his wife. Three of their children are buried here, Mickens Carr, John J., and Dabney. This is known as William "Buck" graveyard.

5th Child, 3rd Family

Mickens Carr Cunningham

5th Child of William and Janot (Mitchell) Cunningham

Groom, Mickens Carr Cunningham; born May 26, 1839. Bride, Laura Jane Hendricks; born Sept. 19, 1846, daughter of John and Sarah (Thomas) Hendricks (see Hendricks family). Date of marriage, Jan. 2, 1866. Five children: 1. Sarah Jane; 2. Lee Annie; 3. John William, born Dec. 27, 1869, died age 83, single; 4. Eliza; 5. Mickens Jr.; 6. N. A., born July 29, 1877, died in infancy. Mickens Carr and Laura Jane (Hendricks) Cunningham are buried at the William (Buck) Cunningham graveyard.

Service record: Mickens Carr Cunningham, Confederate soldier. This record is given in 'History of Kentucky,' by Ed Porter Thompson, published 1868, the Adjutant General's Report of Kentucky, and Perrins' "History of Trigg County."

Mick Cunningham, Jr., Trigg County: Fought at Shiloh, where he was wounded and so disabled that he was shortly afterward discharged. Returned to Kentucky where he measurably recovered, and then went to a company at Beech Grove, Tenn., and re-enlisted. Was detailed as teamster, in which capacity he served until September, 1864, when he entered the ranks and took part in the subsequent engagements.

The Adjutant General's Report of Kentucky Volunteers, Confederate Army: M. C. Cunningham, Jr., 4th sgt., Aug. 14, 1861. Wounded at Shiloh on April 7, 1862.

Perrin's "History of Trigg County:" Co. G, 4th Kentucky Rgt., M. C. Cunningham, Jr. Was mustered into the Confederate Army at Camp Burnett, Tenn. (near Clarksville), July 2, 1861. He is buried in his father's family burying ground. His tomb rock has Co. G, 4th Ky. Regt.

His daughter Eliza (Cunningham) Colley says that the injury M. C. Jr., received was during a battle in which a "Yankee" soldier shot at him and would have killed him if Jim Green Cunningham (2C5F) had not pushed Mick Jr. Even so the shot made a bad wound on his face near his ear. Jim Green killed the Yankee soldier.

Mick Jr., was considered the bravest Confederate soldier from Trigg County. Family tradition is that an important message was to be carried through dangerous "Yankee" territory. As the messenger boy was preparing to leave, one officer said to the commanding officer: "You better send M. C., Jr., if you want the message to get through."

There were two Mickens Carr Cunninghams (1st cousins) in Co. G, 4th Kentucky Regiment and the younger one was listed and called Mickens Jr. The older one was listed and called Mickens Sr. Mickens, Jr., had the nickname "Monkey." The name Meekins (Mickens) is from the Carr family.

that the average child is born with an IQ of 100, which is the same as the average score on the IQ test. This finding is important because it shows that the average child is born with an IQ of 100, which is the same as the average score on the IQ test.

4th Family

Malinda Elizabeth Cunningham

Malinda Elizabeth Cunningham was 16 years old when she left her friends and relatives in Albemarle County, Virginia, and with her family moved to Christian County (now Trigg), Kentucky, 1818. She met and married Thomas L. Baker before her nineteenth birthday. Thomas L. Baker received a land grant of 100 acres on Cumberland River, Trigg County, Kentucky. Date, Dec. 24, 1822, Book 2, Page 248. He later helped organize several Baptist churches in Trigg Co. (see church history). The bond or marriage book in Trigg County court house shows that he performed many marriages in the county. He was a son of Blake Baker (see allied families).

As I walked over their homeplace, yard, family burying ground, and down the hill to the river, I seemed to live over a period of years with this family. There were years of happiness and years of sorrow. Francis M. and John Freeman were in the Southern Army during the Civil War. Francis died with malarial fever and was buried in Louisiana. John Freeman came home with an injury to his eyes and never fully recovered. Amos, the youngest child, died while these two sons were away. He died from holding his breath too long in competition with a small colored boy owned by Rev. Baker.

Rev. Baker owned a number of slaves before 1865, and he would conduct religious services for them before leaving for his Sunday church service.

Rev Baker died Jan. 17, 1870, and one year later, Jan. 29, 1871, Malinda died. They were buried by the side of their vegetable garden. Two of their children, Amos, age 10, and Thomas L. Jr., age 20, were buried here 1858 and 1863. Rev. Baker and wife Malinda have a double tomb rock, "Elder T. L. Baker" on one side. There are seven graves in this family burying ground, the other three are Alexander, 5th child, and wife, Mary Elizabeth (Lizzie), and son Thomas.

4th Child of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham

Bride, Malinda E. Cunningham; born Nov. 30, 1802, in Virginia. Groom, Thomas L. Baker; born April 3, 1801, son of Blake and Christiana Baker. Date of marriage, June 29, 1821, by Abraham Boyd, J.P. (see allied families). Twelve children: 1. William; 2. Caroline; 3. Blake; 4. John Freeman, born 1834 (census record); 5. Alexander; 6. Thomas L. Jr., born Jan. 16, 1838, died age 20 years; 7. Add Eliza; 8. Francis M., born 1842 (census record); 9. Amos, born July 25, 1853, died age 10 years. There were three other children born in this family, Franklin H., Veturia, and Martha. The children are listed as they were given in the 1850 census record of Trigg County.

Service record: "History of Kentucky," by Ed Porter Thompson, printed 1868: "John F. Baker, Trigg County, Kentucky, was elected 2nd lt., Sept.

13, 1861; was promoted to 1st Lt., June 6, 1862; to captain, July 20, 1863. Fought at Murfreesboro and Jackson; Chicamauga, Mission Ridge, Rocky Face Gap, Resaca and Dallas; from Dallas to Atlanta; at Peachtree, Intrenchment, and Utoy Creeks; both days at Jonesboro, and in the mounted engagements to Savannah, when he was disabled for further duty during the war by an infection of the eyes." . . . "History of Trigg County," by Perrin, mentions J. F. Baker, a member of Co. G, 4th Kentucky Regt.

After his parents' deaths, John Freeman went to Florida and as far as his relatives know, he never married and he died and was buried in Florida.

Caroline Baker

2nd Child of Rev. Thomas L. and Melinda E. (Cunningham) Baker

Bride, Caroline Baker; born 1829 (census record). Groom, Joe F. Barnes; born 1827, son of Solomon and Claras (Futrell) Barnes (see Barnes family). Ten children: 1. Joe, Jr.; 2. Ann Della; 3. William Franklin; 4. Martin Luther, never married; 5. Solomon; 6. Thomas; 7. Freeman, never married; 8. Francis Marion; 9. Mason L., never married; 10. Clay, married Nannie Doss, no children. These children may not be listed as they were born; have only three births.

This family moved from Trigg County, Kentucky, to Graves County, Kentucky, while the children were small. Caroline's sister, Addie Eliza (Baker) Cameron, moved to the same section of Graves County. This was a two days' journey by wagon.

Caroline learned soon after her marriage that Joe, her husband, did not like to cut stovewood. Caroline's mother, Melinda, had nine brothers and to her cutting wood was not a woman's job. For the first few months she picked up "loose" wood around the place, but this soon gave out.

As a result, Caroline picked a day when work hands would be on hand to teach her husband, Joe, that he must cut the stovewood if he expected her to cook the meal. Early in the morning of the memorable day, she prepared vegetables and meat and put them in cooking vessels on the stove. At the proper time she also made bread and put it in the oven.

At noon Joe and the work hands, I've never heard how many, came to the house for dinner where Joe found the uncooked food. As a result the workmen had a longer rest period than usual.

This story has been told from generation to generation, not only in the Barnes family but in all of the Cunningham families. My grandfather, Bruce Cunningham, would say: "Cunningham women don't chop stovewood."

Andrew Cunningham

Andrew Cunningham was fourteen years old when he left Albemarle County, Virginia. He was old enough to remember the slow trip across the rough country between Virginia and West Kentucky. His son Robert Bruce Cunningham was my mother's father, and my grandfather would tell me the things that his father told him—how they would roast potatoes in hot ashes and cook wild game over camp fires.

Andrew Cunningham died July, 1874, age seventy. His will, recorded in Trigg County court house names his six children. There is a plot of his land, 1666 acres, showing the division to be made among the six children and wife Nancy. A sketch of the home, a large two story house, which he willed to his wife Nancy is on a plat of 273 acres. Mary, the fourth child, was dead when this will was made, and Mary's part of the estate is left to her son William (Billy) Finley. Jeff Hammond, a son-in-law, was administrator of Andrew Cunningham's estate. Nancy (P'Pool) Cunningham died in 1886.

Andrew, his wife, Nancy, and their fourth child Mary were laid to rest in the family burying ground near their home. Large cedar trees, set in a pattern, show that this was a carefully selected burying ground.

5th Child of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham

Groom, Andrew Cunningham; born Dec. 4, 1804, in Virginia. Bride, Nancy P'Pool; born 1806, in Virginia (see allied families). Date of marriage, Jan. 29, 1833. Six children: 1. Morgan; 2. James Green; 3. Robert Bruce; 4. Mary; 5. Ann Elizabeth; 6. Josephine.

The 1850 census record of Trigg County lists the children as shown above. The mother Nancy P'Pool gives her place of birth as in Virginia. She was proud to be part Indian.

Elizabeth A. Birdsong is buried at the Birdsong graveyard in Trigg County. Morgan Cunningham married three times and had children by the three wives. His family by Elizabeth Birdsong will be completed first, followed with his family by Mary Gresham. His family by Adliza (Creekmur) Means will be last. Service record: Robert Bruce Cunningham, Confederate Army. Volunteered Aug. 7, 1862, at Knoxville, Tenn. Roll of Co. A, 2nd Cavalry. Wounded Sept. 27, 1862. Promoted to 2nd lieutenant Sept. 10, 1862. Clark's Co., Kentucky. Wounded at Hartsville, Tenn., Dec. 7, 1862. Roll of Co. E, 8th Reg. Cavalry.

The record fails to show that he was captured and confined in Hopkinsville, Ky. He and another captured Confederate soldier broke out of prison and traveled at night until they were out of danger from the Northern troops. Southern sympathizers fed them.

My grandfather inherited 200 acres of land from his father. He sold this land in the Blue Spring section of Trigg County and with his family moved to Calloway County Jan. 11, 1886. He was a farmer all of his life. He was a very jolly man and teased his children as well as my grandmother.

Robert Bruce Cunningham died in November, 1923, and wife, Mary Alice, died July, 1923. Both are buried at Kirksey, Ky., in Calloway County.

6th Family

Dabney Carr Cunningham

Dabney Cunningham was a namesake of his mother's brother, Dabney Carr. He was 12 years old when he made the trip, by covered wagon, from Virginia to West Kentucky. The long trip must have been a great adventure to this 12 year old boy.

Dabney died in 1863 with a heart attack while walking on his farm. He had said to his family, "If I fall dead on my farm bury me where I fall." He was buried on a hill near a large tree. This tree has been cut and I had a great deal of difficulty locating his grave. Mr. John Malone helped me find the grave. He came across the grave about 25 years ago while cutting timber on this hill. Few in Dabney Cunningham's family know where his grave is located.

Dabney Cunningham owned a large farm. Like his brothers, he left a will giving to each one of his children a tract of land. This will, dated 1863, has an error in it. Plat 2 in Map A has Allen 42 $\frac{3}{4}$  acres. Dabney did not have a son Allen. There was a daughter Alice who married and had a family, but she is not mentioned in this division of land. His wife is not mentioned and it is presumed that she was dead. His first wife, Rebecca Wimberly, died in 1852. In 1855 he married Tennessee G. Turner. Dabney Cunningham's three youngest children were minors at the time of his death. His son John G. was guardian for King E. and Alice. A son-in-law, John F. Barnes, was guardian for Clint by his second marriage, and also administrator of Dabney Cunningham's estate.

family). Date of marriage, Oct. 28, 1852. Nine children: 1. Sarah; 2. Augustine; 3. John; 4. Dabney; 5. William; 6. Solomon; 7. Clara; 8. Arrora; 9. Martha; 10. Arlenia.

John F. and Victoria (Cunningham) Barnes were living in Trigg County, 1860. The census record shows: "John F. Barnes, age 26, born in Kentucky; Victoria, age 25. Children: Sarah, age 6; Augustin, age 5; John, age 3; Dabney, age 7 months."

This family moved to Texas while these ten children were small. Victoria's brother, John G. Cunningham, went at the same time or soon after, and settled near the Barnes family. Two of Victoria's children married two of John Cunningham's children. Family history is that the 10th child, Arlenia, married Dabney Cunningham, son of John G. The 5th child, William, married Lou Cunningham, daughter of John G. 6th child, Solomon, married a Peters in Texas. 8th child, Arrora, married Joe Brown in Texas. 9th child, Martha, married Jasen Thomas Harrison. The 2nd child, Augustine, is the only one I was able to complete—have had letters from his daughter, Virgie.

All of these children were born in Oklahoma. The descendants of these children are listed with the 4th child (Mary Lee) of Jim and Isabell (Cunningham) Harris, 6th child in the 1st family.

John G. Cunningham

4th Child of Dabney and Rebecca (Wimberly) Cunningham

Groom, John G. Cunningham; born 1838, census record. Bride, Rebecca Boyd (marriage record has M. A. Boyd). Date of marriage, 1866. Six children: 1. Dabney; 2. Willie, girl; 3. Abner; 4. Lou; 5. Sarah; 6. Susan, or Sadie.

John G. and wife Rebecca and children moved to Texas at the same time, or soon after, John G.'s sister, Vitoria Barnes, moved there. The families lived near each other. Two of John G.'s children married two of Victoria's children. Dabney married Arlenia Barnes; Lou married William Barnes (see 3rd child, 6th family).

John G. Cunningham lost an arm in a sawmill accident and since there were several John Cunninghams near his age, he was known as "One Arm John." I was not able to find any of his descendants. Sent letters to many Chnninghams—names taken from telephone directories of several towns in Texas.

7th Family

Mickens Carr Cunningham

Mickens Carr Cunningham was almost eight years old when he came to Trigg County in 1818. He was a namesake of his maternal uncle, Meekins Carr, in Albemarle County, Virginia. For some reason the name became Mickens in the Trigg County records. His birth, 1808, on the Cunningham tomb rock at Trigg Furnace does not agree with his birth on his tomb rock at his graveyard and his age as given in the 1850 Trigg County census record: Mickens Cunningham, age 38, born in Virginia, (wife) Elizabeth, age 27, born in Kentucky, (children) Robert, age 15, Rutha, age 13, Eliza, age 8, James, age 5, Missouri, age 4, Catherin, age 1. Elizabeth, Warren Chastine and Lutitia were born after 1850. Another child, Arnold, had died in childhood.

Mickens Carr Cunningham died Oct. 16, 1888, and was buried on a hill near his home. His wife, Elizabeth (Sivels) died Jan. 14, 1905, and was buried by his side.

Mickens Cunningham's home was a short distance from the original Cunningham home.

Evansville, Ind.

Oct. 13, 1931

Mr. A. C. Burnett

Cadiz, Ky.

Dear Mr. Burnett:

I want to say that my name is Alexander Cunningham. I was always called "Zan." This is in regard to the monument.

For fear something might happen, I will give you my age. I was born in 1845 on January 22. I entered the 2nd Ky. Cavalry. Was in several commands after that time. I was thinking that you could have the monument made now, and send it to me and the Daughters of the Confederacy here will see after it.

The government provided tomb rocks for men who lost their lives in the Confederate Army. Many of these government rocks mark Confederate soldiers' graves in Trigg County. For graves marked with family rocks there is a small marker that can be placed in front of the family rock. All markers given by the government have the soldier's name and company.

On the farm of Mr. Boone Alexander in northwestern Trigg County there is a small tomb rock with the following inscription: "Ella H. remembered by Zan C., sweethearts at school." Older people say this was Ella Hendricks. There were several Ella Hendricks, so it is impossible to know the parents of this girl.

J. B. Williamson has recorded events that took place during his three years in the U. S. Navy during W.W.II. The following is taken from his writings: I boarded a troop ship at Norfolk bound for Pearl Harbor. Bunks were stacked eight high and 12 inches apart. My first duty was salvage detail aboard the sunken battleship Oklahoma. Then aboard the Fanning. After hard work the Fanning was ready to battle the two enemies, Japs and dangerous seas . . . Marshall Islands, Australia, Tasmania, across the Indian Ocean to Ceylon and Java. The Fanning began raids on Iwo Jima which lasted several weeks. Was always on the alert for pilots who had been shot down. On the Iwo Jima campaign we saved 16 or more pilots. On one 40 days at sea we were low on food—rice and vitamin pills. Me, I lost from 160 to 110 pounds. From March, 1945, to September the Fanning was detailed to Air-Sea Rescue between Iwo and the mainland from Japan. Rescued 40 pilots in this period of time . . . ever present strain of possible enemy attack and death. The war ended with the Fanning still on station.

10th Child, 9th Family

Sanoma Cunningham

10th Child of Alexander and Cynthia (Wallace) Cunningham

Bride, Sanoma (Dunk) Cunningham. Groom, William A. Howard. Date of marriage, Feb. 17, 1887. Five children: 1. Lucian; 2. Maggie; 3. Leslie; 4. Georgia; 5. Bobby.

This family moved to Arkansas before any of the children married and after a few years the kinfolk lost contact with them. No one knows who the children married. I tried to locate even one. Did find one Lucian Howard in a small town in Arkansas, but he was not related. I tried to locate them through other families.

There are 652 descendants and 284 in-laws in Alexander and Cynthia (Wallace) Cunningham's family.

10th Family

Robert Cunningham

This family was known as "Rat" Cunningham (see history section). Robert Cunningham, 10th child of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham, was 3 years old when he came to Trigg County, Kentucky, in 1818. His name, Robert, bore a breath of Scotland. The Scottish books on heraldry show many Robert Cunninghams.

The 1850 Trigg County census record lists his family: Robert Cunningham, age 34, born in Virginia; Mary J. (wife), age 28, born in Kentucky; (children) Elizabeth, age 8; William, age 7; Thomas, age 4; Robert, age 3; McDonald, age 2 months. The first child, Leander, had died. Six children were born after 1850.

Robert died in 1884 and his wife, Mary J. (Sivels) Cunningham, died in 1890. They were buried a short distance from their home. Four large cedar trees stand like sentinels at each corner. Their sons, Leander and Washington, and daughters, Elizabeth and Signora, are buried there.

The Cunningham family tree is very large and the limbs have spread into every state in the union. The ten children of William and Nancy (Carr) Cunningham have a total of 8410 descendants and 3675 in-laws. Space would not permit the listing of all places of births, places of marriages, dates of deaths, and addresses of all living members of the family. No mention of divorce has been made; I have been concerned only with marriages and children born to these unions.

In referring to members of the different families, letters and figures have been used. For example: 3C5F means 3rd child in the 5th family.
